

Claim Israeli Jets Strike Iraqi Forces

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Iraq and Jordan charged today that Israeli jets hit Arab positions on Jordanian soil and lost some planes to ground fire. An Iraqi military spokesman claimed that 14 Israeli jets attacked Iraqi forces in Jordan and said Iraqi groundfire sent two planes crashing in flames into Israeli-occupied Golan Heights. Tel Aviv denied that charge.

Later a Jordanian spokesman in Amman claimed three Israeli jets circled over Jordanian positions in the Irbid district and groundfire brought one down near Tiberias and the other in the Golan Heights.

The Iraqi Embassy in Amman said that an Iraqi soldier had been wounded in the Irbid raids.

It was the second Iraqi claim in five days of an Israeli air attack on Iraq's forces in Jordan. Last Thursday Iraq claimed that seven Israeli planes attacked its forces and one was shot down. Israel denied the report, and Jordan reported two Israeli air incursions but mentioned no action.

Baghdad Radio said one Iraqi soldier was slightly wounded in the alleged attack today.

Earlier today Israel announced that two of its jets attacked a Jordanian village south of the Sea of Galilee from which the Israelis said Arab guerrillas fired on an Israeli army patrol.

The Lebanese-Israeli border also flared briefly when small-arms fire was directed from Lebanon at the Israeli settlement of Zar'it, 12 miles east of the Mediterranean and a few hundred yards from the border, the Israeli army said.

An Israeli spokesman said that the Lebanese fire was returned and there were no casualties in the settlement.

In the occupied Gaza Strip, scene of violent rioting Sunday, an explosive charge demolished a small railway bridge near Rafiah.

About 100 Arab schoolgirls were injured in the Strip Sunday when Israeli police charged with nightsticks to break up a three-hour riot involving 4,000 girls. The girls were protesting the jailing of three Gaza women convicted by an Israeli court of spying and aiding guerrillas.

The girls spat, tussled with troops and tore down mud and stone walls outside five schools to throw pieces of them at the soldiers. While Arab men watched quietly, they brandished pictures of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser and yelled: "Nasser! Nasser! Israel is black! Palestine! Palestine!"

Consent By Nixon On Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has decided to accept a French proposal for early talks among great power representatives at the United Nations on ways to break the deadlock in Middle East peace efforts.

He hopes particularly for parallel action by the Soviet Union. A reply to the Paris government is due to go out this week. It is expected to make clear that while the United States sees hope in consultations with the Soviet Union, Britain and France its primary purpose is to move off dead center the U.N. peace-seeking efforts of Swedish Ambassador Gunnar Jarring.

In a related move, Nixon will send a friendly message to Gamal Abdel Nasser in the near future, replying to a note of congratulation he received from the Egyptian President.

His note will be designed to indicate that if Nasser, as reported, plans to propose resuming diplomatic relations with the United States he will find Nixon responsive.

While the Middle East crisis, and the Vietnam situation have dominated Nixon's foreign policy concerns during his first 10 days in office, he has also set in motion a plan to visit several Western European capitals in the next two months and confer with allied government chiefs.

Diplomatic soundings for the trip have been started, and the White House is due to make an announcement soon on his plans.

Nixon expects to visit Paris, site of the Vietnam peace talks, and meet with President Charles de Gaulle. Other capitals which figure in informed speculation are London, Bonn and Rome.

A meeting with Soviet leaders is not being considered at this time, although the President hopes to visit Moscow later on.

Meanwhile the President is projecting action on two other fronts involving Soviet-U.S. relations.

He plans to send to the Senate this week a recommendation for early approval of the treaty to block the spread of nuclear weapons.

The United States signed the pact last year, but Senate approval and final U.S. ratification were delayed after the Soviet invasion of Czechoslovakia in August.

Nixon is also actively interested in starting technical talks with Moscow on limiting the deployment of nuclear missiles as soon as he considers that the world political climate is favorable.

In the view of some Nixon advisers, however, Soviet policy on peace in the Middle East will have an important influence on the international political climate and therefore on prospects for progress in the missile negotiations.

Area Board Of MMCAC Will Meet

The twice-postponed meeting of the area board of Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp., will be held at 7:30 o'clock tonight at the MMCAC office, Sixth and Massachusetts.

The proposed merger of Johnson, Benton and Morgan Counties with the West Central Missouri Rural Development Corp., Appleton City, will be discussed, according to Hardy Cobb, MMCAC director.

This action is the result of Pettis County pulling out of MMCAC, thus forcing the remaining counties to affiliate with another unit.

A recent meeting between city and county officials and officials of the Office of Economic Opportunity indicated the likelihood of Pettis County merging with the Missouri Valley Community Action Corp., Marshall.

WEATHER

Generally fair through Tuesday. Continued moderately cold yet tonight but with a warming trend beginning Tuesday. Low tonight in middle teens. Highs Tuesday in 40s.

The temperature Monday was 16 at 7 a.m. and 32 at noon. Low Sunday night was 15.

Lake of the Ozarks stage: 59.5 feet; 0.5 feet below full reservoir; up 0.1.

Sunset Monday will be at 5:37 p.m.; sunrise Tuesday at 7:16 a.m.

Calls on Ex-Boss

President Nixon paid a spur-of-the-moment call on former President Eisenhower Sunday at Walter Reed Army Medical Center in Washington.

They discussed the critical Middle East situation and Europe's NATO defense system, it was reported. (UPI)

President Nixon Hopeful Of a Journey to Europe

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today President Nixon is hopeful of visiting NATO countries and possibly others west of the Iron Curtain, perhaps before mid-April.

Exploratory talks took place on the matter over the weekend with countries that might be involved, press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler told reporters.

But he said there has been no firm decision, no actual commitment to make the trip.

Nor would Ziegler attempt to tackle the purposes of such a journey, although he said "I think any trip would be a working trip." This appeared to take it out of the area of a goodwill expedition, although the administration naturally would not object to whatever goodwill was generated as a by-product.

Ziegler said that there is no idea of a presidential visit to the Soviet Union at this point.

The foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization partners are meeting in the United States April 10-12, and Ziegler said it is hoped to have everything nailed down before then. And he indicated that there was a chance the Nixon trip might precede the meeting.

Nixon was busy today on problems of the cities in a session with his Council on Urban Affairs, headed by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Among other actions by the President today was the mailing of a batch of 15 directives over the weekend to Cabinet officers, agency heads and special advisers.

Secretary Of Interior On Scene

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — As westward winds pushed a spreading ocean oil slick away from Southern California beaches, Secretary of the Interior Walter J. Hickel arrived Sunday saying he'll do "what has to be done."

"I'm not here making any charges," Hickel said Sunday night after a flight from Washington, "only to do for the general welfare what has to be done." He has been under pressure by conservation groups to halt any damage to wildlife, fish and beaches.

Hickel was meeting with city and county officials and making an aerial inspection of the enormous slick today. He also was talking with Union Oil Co. officials about efforts to seal the leaking undersea well and disperse the estimated 126,000 gallons of floating oil.

Hickel said "close surveillance" is being kept on the four other drilling operations in the Santa Barbara Channel and that he will order them shut down if he finds any "reasonable doubt" as to their safety.

About 20 conservationists met him at the airport and asked for an end to the drilling.

"I don't see how he can do anything but stop the drilling," said Marvin Stuart, a leader of a new organization called GOO Get Oil Out.

Hickel also said he has ordered a full study of existing federal drilling regulations "because they have not been looked at in a very long time — 15 years, to be specific. We hope to try and update them."

Several government agencies were working with Union Oil Co., which drilled the well under a federal lease, in efforts to avoid heavy loss of sea life and major damage to $2,000-per-foot beachfront property.

The prospects "appear encouraging" if there is no sudden shift in weather, the Coast Guard said Sunday. Some of the oil was moving into open sea.

Under contract to Union Oil, a private company erected floating plastic fences in an effort to catch the heaviest accumulation of oil between the mainland and a drilling platform.

City Council To Consider Several Items

The Sedalia City Council meets in regular session in the council chambers beginning at 7:30 o'clock tonight for the first meeting of February.

According to reports, petitions signed by interested parents, pertaining to the retention of the Summer Head Start and the Neighborhood Youth Corps programs are to be presented to the council.

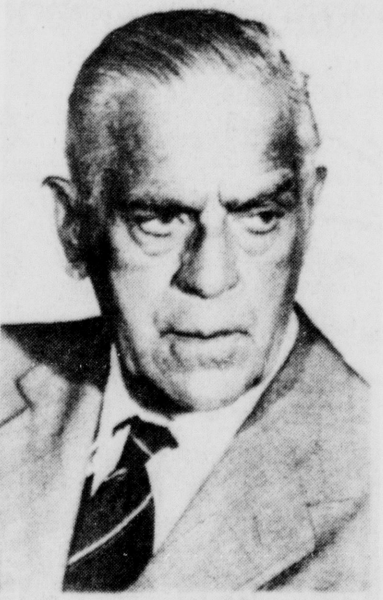

The petitions were prompted by the city and Pettis County's announced withdrawal from participation in Mid-Missouri Community Action Corp., some time ago. The city and county have both indicated they intend to retain these two programs, whether or not the two units participate in the MMCAC.

Another item of interest is the destruction of five bonds, in the amount of $5,000 each, issued for building and equipment for the Rival Manufacturing Co. These five are the first bonds paid off through the lease to Rival.

Other action likely to come up is action on liquor license applications, reading of an ordinance authorizing new fire hydrants and the opening of bids on the removal of 150 dead trees.

Karloff Dies At Age 81

LONDON (AP) — Boris Karloff, the gentle monster who created Frankenstein in the movies and starred in a host of horror films, died Sunday in a hospital near London.

He was 81, had been an actor for 58 years and made more than 130 movies. He made his debut with a touring company in British Columbia in 1910 and his last movie last year in Britain.

A gentle, courteous Englishman despite the guise he presented in so many films, Karloff and his wife in recent years lived in an apartment in London's Chelsea district and in a cottage near the British capital. Although long a resident of Hollywood, he never gave up his

Backlog in Courts At a Record Level

WASHINGTON (AP) — A report sent to the attorney general today showed that the backlog of civil and criminal cases pending in U.S. district courts at the end of the last fiscal year stood at a record 97,245.

The report, prepared by the Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts, said the backlog rose 71 per cent from 1955 although the number of cases filed remained "relatively stable."

As part of his fight against the rising tide of crime in the country, President Nixon has called for more federal judges and prosecutors in order to dispose of the cases faster.

A companion report by the Judicial Conference of the United States also expressed concern about congested court calendars and suggested in addition to more judges:

—A careful and thorough analysis of the inventory of pending cases.

—Notification to defense lawyers of the need to complete trial preparations as promptly as possible.

—Stronger judicial control over requests for continuance.

The Administrative Office report indicated the backlog at the end of fiscal 1968 consisted of 14,763 criminal cases pending and 82,482 civil suits.

The median time in which a defendant may expect to get a jury trial, according to statistical data in the report, is 5.8 months. This varies from a high of 22.8 months in the Eastern District of New York to 1.4 months in the Western District of Kentucky.

Defense lawyers and U.S. attorneys generally consider 4 to 6 weeks as a maximum that a person should await jury trial.

The following figures show the median time defendants await jury trial in federal courts across the nation, with the median time it takes to process guilty pleas in parentheses:

First circuit, 7.8 months (3 months); Second circuit, 10.5 (3.1); third circuit, 9 (5.3); fourth circuit, 4.6 (1.0); fifth circuit, 6.3 (1.8); sixth circuit, 4.0 (2.8); seventh circuit, 9.3 (3.5); eighth circuit, 5.5 (2.1); ninth circuit, 4.6 (1.9); tenth circuit, 3.4 (1.7); and the District of Columbia, 10.1 (8.8).

The median for the 89 districts of the tenth district and the District of Columbia is a 5.8 month wait for jury trial, a wait of 4.6 months for trial without jury and a wait of 2.2 months to enter a guilty plea.

Providing additional headaches for court administrators and judges across the nation are the increasing numbers of civil cases. More than 10 per cent of these have been pending nearly three years.

A backlog of cases has grown too in the U.S. courts of appeal. Fifty-three per cent of appeals stem from criminal actions and applications for habeas corpus, the report said.

The ever-increasing work load of the appeals courts over the decade is illustrated by the 3,889 new appeals filed in 1960, compared with the 9,116 filed in 1968.

Pueblo Crew Together, But Without Their Ship

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "Bucher's Bastards" are a ship's company without a ship. It feels a little strange to the men, but they're trying to operate like a ship's crew anyway.

Their intelligence ship, captured last year by North Korea, is in the Communist country.

In their two-story stucco barracks at the North Island Naval Air Station, the 81 men of the USS Pueblo set up a ship's office in a small room.

Adjacent are offices for the skipper, Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, and the executive officer, Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr., who are appearing at a court of inquiry into the capture, which is being held at an Amphibious training school nearby.

Murphy takes the stand in an open session today, after testimony from Rear Adm. George L. Cassell, chief of staff for operations for the commander in chief of the Pacific Fleet during the capture of the Pueblo by North Koreans.

Cassell follows Lt. Stephen R. Harris, who was in charge of the Pueblo's intelligence section. The Navy said Harris' testimony would be secret in the interest of national defense.

Meanwhile, CWO Gene Howard Lacy, 38, of Seattle, Wash., says, "We're trying to take over our files and assume the duties of a ship's crew as much as possible."

"Of course, we don't have a ship, so our only real duties are cleaning up the dormitories and a fire watch and a phone watch set in each dormitory."

North Koreans freed the Pueblo's 82 men last December, along with the body of the 83rd crewman, who was killed during the capture. But they kept the Pueblo.

Being a ship's company without a ship is strange, says Lacy. "But we've felt strange that way for the last year. It's not like being on a ship, and it never will be."

Except for leave and liberty, which are generous, the men will remain in their barracks near the court of inquiry until its proceedings are complete—at least another three weeks.

Some of them have dubbed themselves "Bucher's Bastards," in a show of loyalty to their skipper during his appearances before the court.

"Dear captain," they wrote him on a piece of Pueblo stationery. "We've made it this far together, and we'll finish it together. (signed) Bucher's Bastards."

Some crew members, like Murphy and Lt. Harris, have homes in the Coronado-San Diego area. They have been getting overnight and weekend liberty to be with their families.

So has Bucher, but he hasn't seen much of his wife and two teen-age sons. He remains until midnight sometimes in his barracks office.

District Votes Tomorrow On Junior High School

Voters of Sedalia School District 200 will go to the polls Tuesday to cast ballots on a $1,650,000 bond issue to build a junior high school in Sedalia.

The polls will open at 6 a.m. and close at 7 p.m. voters may go to any one of four polling places: Horace Mann and Mark Twain Schools for the western section of the district, and Whittier and Washington Schools in the eastern section.

Residents may vote at any of the polling places, and are not bound by ward and precinct lines as in a general election.

Voters who are at least 21 years old and have lived in the district at least 60 days and in the state one year are eligible to vote. No registration requirements are necessary in a school vote.

Passage of the bond issue would raise the district school levy from $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation to $2.92, for construction of the new building, which would mean that the average taxpayer in the district with a tax assessment of $3,000 would pay an extra $3 a year.

The bond issue will require a two-thirds majority for passage.

The junior high school would be built on a 20-acre tract on the west side of Thompson Blvd. The land was donated to the school board by Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Thompson.

The site selection has been the focus of considerable opposition to the bond issue, with critics saying that the school should be centrally located, and pointing to the increased student transportation burdens that would be involved. Proponents of the bond issue reply that the site was donated, that it conforms to the growth pattern of the city and the junior high-age population, and that the cost would be prohibitive to acquire 20 acres in the center of the city.

On the need for a junior high school there appears to be little argument. The School Board points out that construction of a junior high would ease overcrowding at Smith-Cotton, permit the operation of a kindergarten in the elementary schools (as required by state law) and provide needed separation for education of seventh and eighth graders.

Rights Groups Ask For Student Mixing

A meeting between the Sedalia Human Rights Commission and representatives of the Northside Citizens Association and the NAACP has resulted in joint declaration calling upon the Sedalia School Board to end de facto segregation of Negro students in Hubbard School.

The meeting was called following the disclosure that the Missouri State Commission on Human Rights had filed a complaint against School District 200 for suspicion of violating the Missouri Public Accommodations Act and the state Equal Employment Practices Act. Both complaints stem from the operation of Hubbard School on an all-Negro basis.

While noting that some steps have been taken toward alleviating the situation, the joint statement added that "token integration is still very much in effect" in Sedalia.

The statement pointed out that short of moving students from Hubbard to other schools, there seemed to be no solution to the problem, adding that "compliance is possible with the full cooperation of both the Negro and white communities."

The statement continues: "What we have here is not only a school problem — to be solved by the School Board or the Human Rights Commission — but a community problem which has been allowed to exist for so long that there can be no solution short of drastic surgery on the part of the entire population — including the financial, the labor, the real estate, the building, the merchants, and all other interests."

The Sedalia Human Rights Commission stressed that it unanimously supports the junior high school bond issue to be voted on Tuesday and has no desire to jeopardize its passage.

Regarding a solution to ending de facto segregation at Hubbard School, the statement goes on: "We feel confident that the School Board is sincere in its quest for a swift solution, and we feel that with total citizen cooperation and support this transition can be made with a minimum of difficulty."

Tornado Watchers Sought

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau launched a nationwide campaign today to expand its network of volunteer sky watchers in an effort to reduce the tornado death and injury toll.

The campaign is called "Operation Skywarn."

George Brancato, chief meteorologist in the St. Louis Weather Bureau, said weathermen already rely heavily on reports from policemen, housewives, motorists, pilots and other reports of tornado sightings.

In addition to expanding the spotter corps, Skywarn also is geared to promote tornado preparedness plans for schools and other places where large numbers of people gather.

Brancato said skywatchers are extremely important.

"We couldn't do without them for the simple reason that in most cases you need a pair of eyes to actually see that there is a tornado. Radar will spot them only part of the time," Brancato said.

South Vietnamese Reel From Viet Cong Ambush

SAIGON (AP) — Viet Cong troops firing from ambush along the banks of a canal cut into two South Vietnamese companies in the Mekong Delta, killed 28 of the government soldiers, and wounded another 15, military spokesmen reported today.

Viet Cong casualties were not known.

It was one of the worst setbacks suffered recently by the South Vietnamese army.

The ambush 60 miles southwest of Saigon was one of a half dozen fights that flared up Sunday to the south and northwest of the capital. U.S. officers said the fighting indicated "a lot of enemy movement" but no real threat to Saigon.

U.S. and South Vietnamese forces reported killing 160 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese in the fighting that ranged from 60 miles southwest of Saigon to 37 miles northwest of the capital. Eleven Americans and 31 South Vietnamese were reported killed, and 43 Americans and 30 South Vietnamese wounded.

It was one of the heaviest days of action since mid-December.

The worst U.S. casualties were inflicted on troops of the 199th Light Infantry Brigade. They suffered six dead and 20 wounded while trying to root out enemy forces hidden in bunkers along a river bank 22 miles northwest of Saigon and five miles from the headquarters of the U.S. 25th Infantry Division at Cu Chi.

Initial reports said about 100 soldiers from the 199th tangled with an enemy squad of perhaps a dozen soldiers, but later accounts said up to 150 enemy troops were committed at the height of the day-long battle. About 300 U.S. infantry reinforcements, an armored column, dive bombers and helicopter gunships battered the enemy until contact was broken at nightfall.

Thirty bodies were counted on the battlefield by noon today. Dive bombers attacking the enemy positions touched off 27 secondary explosions, indicating direct hits on ammunition stores.

About 17 miles to the northwest, an armored column from the U.S. 25th Division smashed into an estimated 150 North Vietnamese troops and killed 42 with the aid of fighter-bombers from four different bases. Three Americans were killed and 18 wounded.

The U.S. Command announced the conclusion of two year-long operations in the central highlands near An Khe and along the coastal plain near Bong Son conducted by paratroopers from the 173rd Airborne Brigade. The command said 1,201 enemy were killed in Operation Walker and Operation Cochise Green, at a cost of 186 U.S. soldiers killed and 1,183 wounded.

In the air war, U.S. B52 bombers dropped more than 1,000 tons of explosives Sunday and today on what the U.S. Command said were enemy base camps, supply and storage areas, weapons positions and bunkers from the demilitarized zone to the Mekong Delta.

Foundations Can Restore Derriere

Dear Ann Landers: Although I have gained only two pounds since my baby was born, my figure has changed completely. Everything I had before is still there, it's just relocated. With the proper foundation garments, I look fine from the waist up. It's the rest of me I'm concerned about.

I used to have a nice curved look in the back but now I'm flat as a board. I don't know how to describe it except to say I've lost my fanny. Is there some exercise I can do to rebuild it? Thanks for your help.

— NO LONGER WELL REARED

Dear No Longer: I know of no such exercise, but don't despair — help is on the way. Recently I saw advertised (by a very respectable store) a girdle with special padding. It will do for the back what falsies do for the front.

And please, girls, don't write and ask where these girdles can be purchased. I'm not pushing underwear this season. Call your local department store or lingerie shop.

Dear Ann Landers: I went with Kirk for several years. I tried to break up with him at least six times. Each time he cried and pleaded with me not to leave him, so I continued to see him. Kirk frequently said and did things that indicated he was unstable. I pleaded with him to get professional help but I got nowhere.

Last summer while vacationing out east I met a wonderful man — a widower with a child. We saw a great deal of each other and now I think I'm in love with him. He telephones me twice a week and sends something in the mail almost every day. He is coming to see me next week.

Yesterday I told Kirk there is someone else. He became hysterical and cried, "If you leave me I'll kill myself."

I am frightened and mixed up. If Kirk commits suicide I'll never forgive myself. I need advice at once. — STAR SISTER

Dear Star: Don't allow Kirk's illness to ruin your life. Emotional blackmail can be a dangerous game. Those who become victimized pay a dear price.

Tell Kirk one more time that he must get professional help. Then bid him good-by — and mean it. You will have done as much for him as anyone could — short of sacrificing your own life. And that you don't owe him.

Dear Ann Landers: I'm 18, a girl, and want to have my nose bobbed. I've seen some awful results as well as some beautiful ones. I'm reluctant to ask a person the name of his doctor because most people would like you to believe they were born with the nose they now have.

How does one go about finding a truly skilled plastic surgeon? — D.S.

Dear D.S.: Don't ask a person who obviously has a botched job. Ask someone who has had great success. A pleased patient should be happy to recommend his surgeon. I think.

In the meantime, be aware that the outcome of rhinoplasty depends not only on the surgeon, but on what he had to work with.

Wouldn't Dare Go Home Now

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — She is like a modern Juno, both in figure and style. She is Irene Papas, a living symbol of Greece, a country she dares not to return to.

The dark-eyed beauty is back in Hollywood after an absence of 12 years, this time playing a Greek-American in "A Dream of Kings" opposite the noted "Zorba the Greek," Anthony Quinn, who is actually Mexican-Irish.

Irene Papas is Greek, no doubt about it. She has her countrymen's curious combination of ebullience and sadness, though she has more reason to be sad nowadays. The reason: Control of her native land by a military junta with which she disagrees.

Like Melina Mercouri, she has been outspoken in her opposition to the Greek regime. Unlike Mercouri, she has received no retaliation.

So far the actress has resisted all invitations to return. She even declines to fly on Olympic Airlines owned by her friend, Aristotle Onassis ("I actually know his wife better.") lest the flight be misdirected to Athens. She declared she would not return to Greece until free elections are held.

After making an impression with her classic beauty and intense dramatic style in European plays and films, she came here for a contract at MGM. The timing was poor; the studio and the industry in general was entering a period of turmoil. Her one film was the ill-fated "Tribute to a Bad Man."

Miss Papas returned to Europe and starred in such films as "The Guns of Navarone," "Electra" (her own favorite) and "Zorba the Greek."

The latter, she remarked, did a good job of presenting the "touristic Greek," but the real nature of her countrymen has yet to be captured on the screen.

"The Greeks are capable of uniqueness," she mused. "They have a capacity for explosion, as they demonstrated in their fantastic resistance to the Italian invasion. They have the ability to do things just for the hell of it, as I did when I decided to come to America for the funeral of Bobby Kennedy."

"Above all, the Greeks have the sense of the passing of time. They have the Parthenon and they have the church. It is no wonder that they have a feeling of time passing."

Oil Pocket Means Big Trouble

PONCA CITY, Okla. (AP) — It started when oil began clogging the sewage disposal plant.

Then one of the city's water wells began flowing oil, too.

When city officials tried five times to sink another water well, all they could hit was oil — sometimes only 18 inches from the surface.

But it is not a happy story. A state agency identified the black stuff as refined petroleum, not natural crude oil.

And it is plaguing the 1,000 residents of the 12-block area which has been affected.

They complain there are strong odors in their homes.

Flames on their stoves burn red. Eyes sting. Some have sick headaches.

The problem isn't new, but the severity of it is.

Leon Nelson, manager of the city of 27,000 said it was known that some "hydrocarbon" was in the soil of this oil-rich area for the past 30 years. He said it has been flowing in the sewer lines for about eight years.

"It is only the past six or seven months that it has been this acute," he said. "There is speculation that the water table has risen and caused it."

Just where the oil comes from hasn't been determined. But one resident has taken the issue to court, claiming the oil somehow broke free from nearby refineries.

She is Mrs. Gladys Cobb, and she says she deserves $15,000 for damages to her home. Her suit names the Sequoia Refining Corp. and Continental Oil Co., both of which have nearby refineries, and the Cities Service Oil Co., which recently sold its refinery here to Sequoia.

The city has started selling the oil.

But there's little profit in it. Nelson says the costs of equipment and supervisors keeps the

Wallace Has No Plans For The Presidency

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Former Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace "has no plans for the 1972 presidential election," one of his top aides said at a meeting of Wallace backers here.

Bill Jones, Wallace's former press secretary, said he was attending the Dallas meeting "to observe." Wallace was not scheduled to appear.

Delegates from 45 state organizations who supported Wallace for president last year are here to discuss methods of keeping their common interests alive in the form of a national party — with a national advisory committee foremost in their plans.

Jones said Wallace's files of donors to his 1968 campaign were not available to anyone at this time. "but these people would have top priority," he said.

Billed as "The Association of Wallace Voters," the Dallas meeting is to stabilize the loose-knit organization that evolved from Wallace's presidential try, said Californian Bob Walters, who headed Wallace's California campaign.

"Our philosophy is this," Walters commented, "in the distant future we plan to develop a party that could support any candidate. But we're not kidding ourselves. We probably couldn't last beyond 1972 if George Wallace isn't our standard bearer."

Experts Gather To Play Games of War

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — One icy day last week 105 corporate executives, professional men and academicians, all cleared to handle secret material, gathered at a baronial mansion an hour's drive north of here to play games.

They were deadly earnest; these were war games.

The group broke into units of eight or ten individuals to discuss problems and work out solutions, which later would be presented to the entire assembly and then criticized by government officials.

One of these was Joseph F. Miller, executive vice president of a manufacturers' association, lawyer and former member of the National Production Authority during the Korean War. This was one of his problems:

It is 30 days after a nuclear catastrophe and time to think of rebuilding the destroyed city. But there are materials problems. Piping, for instance, is in short supply. Where can it be obtained?

Miller's group, all of its members familiar with construction, decided that it would be wise to dig it up. Frequently, he said, when a new pipeline is put down the old one isn't pulled up. Now would be the time to do so.

In addition, although the nuclear attack might have destroyed the structure in which the piping—in this case copper—was contained, some of the piping itself might still be salvageable.

As Miller left that afternoon he had in his possession a special pass and instructions on where to report in case of an actual attack. It was a successful meeting, he reported. Forty recruits had been signed up. He was elected chairman.

This was a meeting of the New York area National Defense Executive Reserve, a group of talented individuals whose job is to be "available, ready and trained to serve government in a limited war or nuclear attack."

These are the words of Arthur Rutzen, director of the New York field office of the Commerce Department. Adds Rutzen, "The purpose of NDER is to get the economy moving as fast as possible after a catastrophic event."

There are about 4,000 members of NDER scattered throughout the country and attached to one or another government department. The Departments of Transportation, Agriculture, Interior have units, for example.

Each member attends at least one two-day session a year in his own area, plus a one-day conference in Washington. Throughout the year they are kept up to date through considerable mail from Washington.

The government is looking for more such men, for as a Commerce Department official commented, "We never have been successful in getting the needed number of reservists for operations and backup purposes."

In the Vietnam War, the NDER remains on reserve rather than active duty because full mobilization has not been declared. Throughout the Vietnam War it has never been necessary to allocate materials or fix prices and wages.

The largest unit of NDER, some 1,600 members, is attached to the Commerce Department, primarily because the job of increasing production and distributing raw materials becomes huge in wartime. For Jonathan Rintels it is even now a fulltime job.

Rintels, director of the Commerce Department's Office of Mobilization Readiness, is scheduled to help run training sessions this week in Texas. Three more meetings are to follow in Western states.

Female Lieutenant Faces a Conviction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Lt. j.g. Susan Schnall, a Navy nurse, faces a possible five years at hard labor after being convicted by a general court-martial. She was accused of throwing antiwar leaflets from an airplane over four Navy bases and participating in uniform in a "GI March for Peace."

The same six-officer court that found her guilty Friday will reconvene Monday to fix sentence.

The specifications against Mrs. Schnall, 25, charged she failed to obey a general order issued at all Bay Area military bases last October on the day before the "GI Peace March" forbidding personnel to take part in it in uniform.

The prosecution produced a television tape it said showed Mrs. Schnall appeared in uniform as a speaker during the peace march.

Offenders Mostly Youngsters

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Over 60 per cent of criminal offenders sentenced to the State Department of Corrections in 1968 were between the ages of 17 and 25.

Fred T. Wilkinson, director, said today he feels a major contributing factor is lack of motivation. He points to the lack of education on the part of most of these youthful offenders. Average grade achievement of 1-

213 inmates tested last year was 7.20.

More than 480 inmates were not tested because they could not read or write, or for age and medical reasons.

The Missouri Department of Corrections is trying to do something about this motivation or lack of it.

Fifty-eight penitentiary inmates are enrolled in a college program offered here for the first time today.

Courses in economics, sociology and English will be taught by professors from Lincoln University. Inmates participating can earn up to nine hours credit for the three courses.

The department is spending $297,083 this fiscal year and asking for $329,000 for education next year.

Of the amount appropriated this year, $246,793 goes for salaries, $6,570 for repair and replacement of buildings, and $36,220 to operate the educational system in the prisons.

Tom Hageman, director, division of inmate education, sees one problem peculiar to prisons.

He says the average prisoner is primarily interested in making a comfortable living while confined, or succeeding in attaining a non-labor position to while away his time until he is released.

"This attitude presents many problems to the educator in prison," he says.

The Missouri Department of Corrections attempts to persuade the prisoner that he doesn't "know it all" and induce him to seek the educational opportunities that are available.

high school diplomas through the education department. Elementary diplomas were awarded 148 inmates. There were 200 graduates in the various vocational training classes. With a total average population of 3,400 inmates, 1,401 were enrolled in educational classes last year.

At Algoa, intermediate reformatory, 163 students were enrolled in elementary school, 176 in high school, and 76 in vocational school.

The inmates attend class half of the day and work at assigned duties during the other half.

They may work at the dairy that provides milk for the 450 young men housed there, or they may work on the rich river bottom land, producing a high yield of grain and hay each year.

Classes at Algoa are as informal as disciplinary problems will permit. They are usually limited to a dozen students at one time.

Each student is allowed to set his own pace and it is not unusual to visit a classroom with one student studying the famed writing of Louis Nizer, "A Case of Libel," while next to him another young inmate is learning to pronounce "ma-chine."

The school system is ungraded. That is, rather than grades 1, 2, 3, etc., inmates are assigned levels of achievement. Level one would be grades 1, 2 and 3, level two grades 4, 5 and 6, level three grades 7 and 8, and level four high school.

Wilkinson is concerned with the rate of illiteracy within prison confines. He believes if these offenders can be motivated to learn at least to read and write they will acquire some feeling of belonging. This is one of the problems he sees that drives youthful offenders to a life of crime.

Vocational training at the Men's Training Center near Moberly is a major part of the rehabilitation program.

This medium security institution is equipped to provide academic and vocational training and furnishes work and therapeutic activities for some serving long sentences.

Prison officials constantly point to the need to keep prisoners occupied. They don't favor physical activities that limit the number of participants. Rather, they encourage activities where all inmates can take part.

Recently a grant of $90,000 with matching funds of $21,000 from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare allowed expansion and acceleration of vocational training there.

Another, more refined educational class is being carried on in the penitentiary. Inmates who meet certain educational requirements are trained to be computer programmers.

One inmate, released recently, reports he is earning $10,000 yearly with a computer firm in New York City. Another inmate, who obtained a job with a large electronic firm after his release, returned recently and urged his former companions to take advantage of the course.

"When you get out," he told them, "you can name your price."

Women are not overlooked in the educational programs either.

Fifteen women, inmates at Tipton Correction Center, graduated from a school in cosmetology last year.

State approved curriculums are established for completion of eighth grade studies and for general educational development with high school diplomas to be earned after completion of supervised tests.

Other special programs are provided in the social sciences.

Hageman says most prisoners are obviously failures — in crime as well as anything legitimate. He says the recourse to crime implies failure in the satisfaction of materialistic desire by legitimate means.

"Subsequently," he says, "commitment to prison indicates failure in crime also."

He feels prison officials must offer prisoners something they can do constructively. "Make education or vocational training attractive so he will pursue it as diligently as he did crime in society."

Double Take

At first glance it seems modesty has come to an end, but a second look with strained necks shows passers-by that they were only seeing display mannequins on a downtown Los Angeles street. The store owner had set his mannequins out to dry in the sunshine following nine days of rain in Southern California. (UPI)

Bargaining Item Seen In Sentinel Decision

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey says the Johnson administration approved a U.S. missile defense to "quicken the interest of the Soviet Union" in strategic arms negotiations.

"I have always been skeptical in my own mind about the security value of deploying an ABM (antiballistic missile) system," Humphrey says in an introductory to a report on the missile shield controversy.

"I share the reservations stated by Secretary (Robert S.) McNamara when he announced the ABM deployment in 1967."

"At the same time, I understood the reasons why the President felt the preparations for a limited deployment might quicken the interest of the Soviet Union in meaningful negotiations on the strategic arms race, provided we place top priority on the urgent necessity of reaching an agreement on the ABM issue," Humphrey stated.

In major pronouncements, mainly by McNamara, the Johnson administration insisted the antimissile defense was designed to guard against the threat of a nuclear-armed Red China in the 1970s.

Critics of the system now being built, the $5.5 billion Sentinel defense, have contended, however, that it is merely first step toward a $40 billion anti-Soviet shield.

Time and again Humphrey spoke of the Soviet nuclear threat while making only one passing reference to Red China's "overt hostility."

His remarks were in a report on antimissile pros and cons published by the Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions, a nonprofit educational group which claims 85,000 members.

For his part, Humphrey said new emphasis ought to be put on ironing out an arms limitation pact with the Soviets, rather than escalating the strategic race with more and fancier offensive and defensive weapons.

Humphrey said Johnson got conflicting advice on antimissile capabilities and limitations, and President Richard M. Nixon will inherit the same situation.

"He will receive, as we did in the Johnson administration, directly conflicting testimony from his scientific advisers as to the capability of the proposed antimissile defenses; and he will receive conflicting intelligence estimates as to the Russians' capability to penetrate our defenses, or shield themselves against our nuclear missiles."

New Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird suggested in a news conference last week that work on the Sentinel should be continued as a bargaining item for use in any U.S. negotiating with the Soviets on strategic weapons.

Humphrey implied he thinks the bargaining aspect would be Sentinel's chief value.

"In this light, ABM might yet provide a great service in advancing the strategic arms negotiations if, having taken the system to this stage of development, we set it aside as a symbol of our determination to halt the arms race where it is, and turn it back if we can," Humphrey said.

Hospitals and related institutions employ about 15,000 administrators, according to a survey by the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Got Out in Time

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Amanda Walker, 68, said she was in her bedroom when she heard a crash outside.

So she walked to the living room window to look. "Then I heard a crashing, crumbling noise in my bedroom."

It was all from the same source. Police said two cars collided in the street. That was the first crash. The second was when one ricocheted through the brick apartment house wall into Mrs. Walker's bedroom.

No one was seriously hurt.

Pigeon Sent Home By the Principal

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP) — Pigie the pigeon was sent home from Central Elementary School with a note from the principal—attached to its leg.

Mrs. S. M. Burton, Pigie's owner, found the note when she started to feed the pigeon.

The note, written by Principal Grady Lane, told how Pigie had been haunting the fourth grade classroom at Central for a week, flying through an open window and perching on lighting fixtures. Lane had twice cornered Pigie and had tossed him out, but Pigie persisted.

The note asked the owner to contact Lane.

Pigie is now a prisoner in his owner's home—at least during school hours.

Hawaiian Island Seen as 'Suburb'

HONOLULU (AP) — Lt. Gov. Thomas P. Gill suggests the island of Molokai, 20 miles southeast of Oahu Island, could become a suburb of Honolulu.

"Its closeness to Honolulu, the rapid development of efficient short range aircraft and the incredible population pressures of Honolulu may yet turn parts of Molokai into a suburb," Gill said Sunday.

Most of us have now received our new spring garden catalogs and have had time to be tempted by their many beautiful pictures and enticing descriptions.

Each seed company boasts particularly of the new introduction it has developed, or is handling for the first time. Most of these are very interesting and would be a rewarding addition to our plantings, but since we cannot grow them all, let's look at a few.

Most seed catalogs will list All-America-Selections. These are plants that have been tested on selected trial grounds throughout the U.S. Those that have been rated highly for their performance in all the gardens are awarded either a gold, silver, or bronze medal, or honorable mention. Few gold medals have been awarded flowers in recent years, the last one going to the cosmo "Sunset" in 1966. There have recently been several silver and bronze medal winners, and five All America Selections were announced for 1969. Three of these are rather dwarf plants that could be grown together very well in an interesting low border.

Tallest of this group is the dwarf white cornflower "Snowball" that forms compact mounds 12 to 15 inches tall. Another winner was the zinnia "Cherry Buttons" that grows to about 10 inches tall and has small cherry-coral blooms. The third dwarf plant is a vinca "Polka Dot" that is white with a bright red eye in the center of the flower. This vinca has a creeping growth habit, so that it seldom will exceed six inches in height.

The two other All-America selections are tall growing F1 hybrid zinnias. Both are cactus flowered types that belong to a group known as "Zenith zinnias." "Torch" is a bright fiery orange, and "Rosy Future" is a soft rose pink.

There are many other good new plants even though they have not received any special distinction, and should not be overlooked. Fibrous rooted begonias are a favorite plant for shady spots and are increasing in popularity. Some very good varieties are "Firelight," "White Charm," and "Derby."

For sunny spots there is not another annual as impressive as the celosia or cockscomb. A good crested type is "Fireglow." "Cardinal Improved" and "Rose Empress" are two very good dwarf types. "Golden Triumph" and "Forest Fire Improved" are plume types that have proven to be very satisfactory.

Marigolds usually perform so well with so little care that we should mention a few of the very best although not all these varieties are completely new. In the dwarf French types, the "Pettie" group is perhaps the most outstanding. In the medium height group of "Hedge marigolds," "Orange Jubilee" and the other "Jubilee" varieties have done very well. Also worth growing are "First Lady" and an orange flowered variety with an unusual form, "Fantastic."

Suburban Wives Have Life a Little Easier

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

The chores of housekeeping are harder on city wives than suburban wives. A survey found city wives spent 32 hours a week on household tasks, suburban wives 19. Yes, but how about all those hours suburban wives spend driving hubby to and from the railroad station and chauffeuring the kids to school and parties?

Brighter children have more fun in life. Children in the pre-teens with a high intelligence quotient, tests at Purdue University indicate, tend to be more cheerful, enthusiastic, venturesome and secure. Those with duller minds were less emotionally stable, more sentimental and more self-doubting.

Who is to blame for the population explosion? In this country it appears to be the middle class, not the poor. Experts at the Center for Population Research say the United States now has more children per couple than any other modern industrial nation. Why? Because our middle-class parents feel an ideal family has three rather than two children.

Australia's frontier Outback is so dry that one steer may need a square mile of grazing area to survive. A four-year-old boy wept in fright, reports the National Geographic, when rain splashed his face. The lad, born during a long drought, had never seen water fall from the sky.

Quotable notables: "Life is like a B-picture script. It is that corny. If I had my life story offered to me to film, I'd turn it down." —actor Kirk Douglas.

The chief crime among our disorderly elderly is—here's a surprise—public alcoholism. A review of 939 arrests of persons over 60 in San Francisco revealed that more than 80 per cent were jailed for drunkenness, 15 per cent for petty theft and other minor crimes. Only 2 per cent involved crimes against other persons; less than 1 per cent were for sex offenses or for narcotics violations.

Health warning: If your arteries are hardening, beware of shoveling snow and then going indoors and taking a hot shower. The combination of undue exertion followed by a heated shower can precipitate a lethal heart attack, says Dr. Henry L. Taylor, University of Minnesota researcher.

Fires In City

Fire gutted a two-story frame residential building at 309-311 West Seventh early Monday morning.

Firemen were called to the building at 1:42 a.m., answering with both trucks and the ladder truck, and remained on the scene until mid-morning.

The cause of the blaze has not been determined, according to Fire Chief Emmett Vaught, but it probably started around the staircase in one of the apartments. He indicated the fire had smoldered for some time before it finally broke out.

The building, which had been vacated late Sunday, is owned by Makigh Luetjen, according to the fire report.

Burning hay behind the Sacred Heart School building brought firemen to the scene Sunday afternoon. The fire was extinguished. No damage was listed.

A petition for a total of $28,400 was filed in Circuit Court Monday by Casimir and Kristina Borkowski, Kansas City, against Jerry Dean Paull of Sedalia, in connection with an accident on Route M in Pettis County Jan. 29, 1968.

Casimir Borkowski is seeking the first count of the petition, $25,000 for personal injuries and $900 for vehicle damage, and Kristina Borkowski is seeking $2,500 for loss of services due to her husband's injuries in the second count.

Ryan, Maitland & Ryan, Kansas City, are attorneys for the plaintiffs.

Policemen Will Attend MU Course

The Mid-Missouri Major Case Squad, made up of members of participating law enforcement units in the Central Missouri area, is conducting a new training program, in connection with a recruiting campaign, at the University of Missouri Feb. 17-21.

The Sedalia Police Department, according to Chief William Miller, is sending three officers, Wayne Tinseth, Richard Guyon and William Shobe, to the new training course. This will give Sedalia seven officers on the squad, which acts in the same capacity as "M-Squads" in larger cities.

The new trainees will attend all of the classes during the five-day period, and the four now on the squad, Sgt. William Raines, Sgt. Joe Bass and officers Clarence Harrell and James Lawson, will attend the last two days, which is a refresher course for them, Miller said.

Miller explained that even though the Sedalia Police Department has seven men on the squad, all seven cannot be spared to work with the squad on cases at the same time. "We cannot spare that many men at once and still leave Sedalia with adequate police protection, but this is good training for our men and we like to take advantage of this training as often as possible," Miller said.

Jaycee Wives Endorse Jr. High Issue

Mrs. Walter Loveland discussed the proposed junior high school bond at the Jan. 28 meeting of the Jaycee Wives in the Bothwell Hotel. Jaycee women voted to publicly endorse and actively support the Feb. 4 issue.

An appeal to board five children, whose mother has been hospitalized, was answered by Mrs. Dave Kempker, Mrs. Ted Brown and Mrs. Ron Dale. Each volunteered her home.

Project chairman were announced for the Miss Sedalia Pageant and the Jaycee auction. Jaycee wives will again coordinate the Easter Seal campaign with Mrs. Eddie Wise and Mrs. John Swezy, co-chairmen.

"Outstanding Wives" named for the quarter were Mrs. Carl Zimmerschied, Mrs. Walter Loveland and Mrs. Dave Kempker.

Other business included the election of Mrs. Don Timbers as board member in charge of ways and means and a call for volunteers to transport the retarded children to skating activities.

Guests at the meeting were Mrs. Joe Doggett and Mrs. Robert Mann. Mrs. Mann joined the club.

The Feb. 11 board meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Loveland.

The meeting closed with Mrs. Keith Rowland leading the Jaycee Creed.

British citizenship and returned to Britain to live in 1959.

He was a polished performer who received critical acclaim for his 1956 Broadway role as a bishop in "The Lark." French playwright Jean Anouilh's saga of Joan of Arc. Karloff called the Broadway role, "the high point of my career as an actor."

Karloff's Hollywood career began in 1919, but it languished until 1931 when he landed the role of Frankenstein's monster.

He played the lumbering tall-browed creature in only three films, but they set the standard for hundreds of movie chillsers.

His non-Frankenstein roles were in such equally spooky movies as "The Mask of Fu Manchu," "Voodoo Island," "The Body Snatcher," "Isle of the Dead," and "Stranglehold."

Karloff said he was grateful for being typecast for horror films.

"The monster was the best friend I ever had," he once told an interviewer. "Certainly I was typed. But what is typing? It is a trade mark, a means which the public recognizes you. Actors work all their lives to achieve that. . . I got mine with just one picture. It was a blessing."

He was born William Henry Pratt in Dulwich, England, on Nov. 23, 1887.

Turned down from World War I service because of a bad heart, Karloff emigrated to America where he toured in stock companies.

GOOD FARMING with Lloyd Lewellen

Pettis County
Farm Management Agent

Several species of insects spend one or more of their stages of development in the soil causing damage to the underground parts of corn plants. Seed-corn maggots and seed-corn beetles injure seed before and just as it sprouts. Wireworms damage both the seed and seedling plants. Cutworms cut off seedling plants or chew into the stems at, or just below, the ground line. Corn rootworms (northern, southern and western) and grape colaspis feed on and in the root system. Several less common insects, such as billbugs, white grubs, corn root aphids and sod webworms, may cause additional damage to the roots or seedling plants.

The use of long residual chlorinated hydrocarbon soil insecticide will prevent most of the injury from these insects, except those species of rootworms which have developed resistance and the seed corn beetle which may be resistant, particularly in the northeast and north central states.

Use aldrin or heptachlor applied broadcast to the surface of plowed ground at the rate of 1.5 to 2.0 pounds actual chemical per acre.

For broadcast applications, use any of the following formulations: Water based sprays, use three to four pints 45 per cent aldrin emulsifiable concentrate of 2 to 2 and two-thirds quarts 31.4 per cent heptachlor emulsifiable concentrate per acre.

Granules, use 7.5 to 10 pounds 20 per cent aldrin granules of 7.5 to 10 pounds 20 per cent heptachlor granules per acre.

Fertilizer-insecticide mixture, use aldrin or heptachlor properly blended or mixed with dry or liquid fertilizer and apply at a rate to give either the 1.5 or 2.0 pound dosage rate per acre.

When to Use
Use a soil insecticide application each spring. The amount of insecticide carry-over is not sufficient to effectively control the soil insect complex the second year.

Broadcast applications may be made anytime prior to the actual planting operation, but should not be made more than one month before anticipated planting. Where possible, make applications one to two weeks prior to planting. This time interval allows the insecticide to destroy most soil insects before seed is put into the ground.

Where a broadcast application is not used, damage from high numbers of soil insects usually cannot be stopped in time to escape considerable stand reduction or replanting.

How to Use
Uniformly apply by spraying or spreading the proper dosage of aldrin or heptachlor to the surface of plowed ground in the spring. Do not plow under and do not inject with fertilizer applicators.

Immediately following application of any formulation of either insecticide, incorporate into the top three to five inches of soil preferably by disking. Other types of seedbed preparation equipment usually do not give uniform incorporation to the desired depth. Redisking the soil anytime following the initial incorporation will not lower the effectiveness of the insecticide and may aid in obtaining more even distribution.

Both aldrin and heptachlor, regardless of formulation, are volatile. Therefore, when temperatures are above 60 degrees Fahrenheit, make every effort not to have more than four hours elapse between application and incorporation, otherwise some of the insecticide will be lost.

Dairy Farms
Since chlorinated hydrocarbon type insecticides, excepting methoxychlor and seed treatments, are not recommended for any use on dairy farms, corn soil insect control becomes more difficult. The following control program may even prove insufficient with high numbers of wireworms and cutworms.

Treat the seed immediately prior to planting with any of the following at the rate of two ounces (six level tablespoons) per bushel; 50 per cent aldrin, dieldrin, heptachlor or lindane wettable powder seed treaters, or three ounces (13 level tablespoons) 50 per cent diazinon wettable powder. This will protect the seed until germination occurs.

Make a row band application at the time of planting or basally apply at time of a cultivation any of the granular resistant rootworm insecticides.

Should a heavy cutworm problem develop, apply sprays of either carbaryl or trichlorfon, or trichlorfon bait. As sprays, use either two pounds actual carbaryl (Sevin) or one pound actual trichlorfon (Dylox) per acre. Concentrate the spray at the base of the plants and soil on both sides of plants using at least 20 gallons of spray per acre and follow immediately with a light cultivation. Apply the bait broadcast during the late afternoon using 20 pounds five per cent trichlorfon (Dylox) bait per acre. There are no restrictions regarding usage as ensilage, grain or grazing after harvest with this program.

Western Corn Rootworm
Western corn rootworm damage was severe and widespread over the northwestern forty per cent of the state during 1968. Very early planting and lack of rainfall during May and June reduced the effectiveness of all recommended insecticides.

Once again, very little spread was observed during 1968 with only 4 new county infestations recorded. Newly infested counties included Vernon, Cedar, Hickory and Monticau. The so-called resistant area is again being moved southward and now extends eastward along southern Bates and Henry counties and then northeastward through Pettis, Cooper, Boone, Audrain, Monroe and Ralls Counties. Any field in continuous corn lying north of this line could have damaging populations of western corn rootworms during 1969.

Crop rotation and certain other cultural practices will aid in minimizing western corn rootworm damage. Where crop rotation is not practiced, certain insecticides are necessary to control this pest.

Crop Rotation
Western and northern corn rootworms prefer the roots of corn for larval feeding, although both of these species may occasionally be found feeding upon the roots of other crops, grasses or weeds. The adult western corn rootworm beetles are attracted to and feed upon the pollen from corn, sorghum, certain legumes, and certain grasses and weeds common to our cultivated land. Eggs are usually deposited in

Noise in Clouds Is Unexplained

JACKSONVILLE BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of persons—including Police Chief James Alford—reported strange sounds coming from two clouds. One man described the sound as like "someone rattling cellophane." A woman said it was more like "someone walking on pebbles."

Alford ordered Capt. Harold Bryan to follow the first cloud. Bryan did so—to the edge of the Atlantic where the cloud dissipated.

The listeners started to go back inside their homes when they said another cloud repeated the performance. Bryan also followed it to dissipation over the Atlantic.

Officials at the Mayport Naval Air station said they could offer no explanation, neither could other officials.

Ex-Policeman is Given Long Term in Slaying

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Robert Erler, an ex-policeman, has been convicted of murdering a 12-year-old girl after being identified by his voice as the man who pleaded in a telephone call, "Please catch me."

Erler, 24, was sentenced Friday to 99 years and six months for second degree murder in the slaying of Marilyn Clark. Under present parole rules, he probably would serve one-third of the sentence.

Defense attorney Joseph Varon said he will appeal the conviction on grounds of error by Judge E. Summers Shreffler.

Erler was silent but visibly shaken when the foreman read the jury's verdict. His sisters, Lynne and Betty, cried in the front row of the court. A spectator gasped. Erler's mother was driven away by her other son, Dan, 21, held her tightly. Erler—then a Hollywood, Fla., police patrolman—reported finding Marilyn's body the morning of Aug. 12. The child had five bullets in her head. Five miles away, her mother lay in the blood-spattered family car, also with five bullets in the head.

About an hour before the bodies were found, a soft, male voice told the sheriff's office: "I just killed three people... I'm serious. Please catch me. Please... hurry up."

No third victim ever was found, and for a time, Erler was assigned as investigating officer on the murder case.

At his trial, which began Monday, five witnesses—four policemen and an ex-policeman—testified it was Erler's voice on the tapes of the calls to the sheriff's office.

Mafia Lieutenant Comes as Witness

NEW YORK (AP) — Carmine Lombardozi, tabbed by law enforcement officials as a lieutenant in the Mafia family, has appeared as a character witness for a friend seeking reinstatement of his real estate broker's license.

The dapper Lombardozi is currently free on bail pending appeal for a perjury conviction. He appeared Friday at a state hearing at which Dominick J. Tinghino sought to regain a license revoked in 1965 for alleged improper business transactions.

Lombardozi told the hearing that Tinghino was "a very trustworthy man in my opinion. He's a real honest guy."

Mrs. Clark, then tried to rob her.

In the car, she turned to Marilyn and said, "I sure can pick the kooks," Marilyn replied. "And how," Mrs. Clark said that's the last thing she remembered until waking in the hospital 3½ weeks later.

Just a Hazy Forecast

Winters aren't what they used to be, say climatologists, and they aren't talking about the blizzard of '88.

Since about 1950, a cooling trend has made winters a bit harsher and summers slightly milder in both North America and Europe. This reverses a warming trend that took place during the first half of the 20th century, says the National Geographic Society.

Paradoxically, the experts suspect that man-created pollution is responsible for both trends.

The warming may have been caused by carbon dioxide, produced by burning coal and oil. The cooling may be due to other forms of pollution — dust and smoke and other particles man is spewing into the air.

One scientist with the Environmental Science Services Administration estimates that the carbon dioxide naturally present in the atmosphere keeps the world about 20 degrees warmer than it would be if the gas were totally absent. A 10 per cent increase in the amount of carbon dioxide, which is an efficient absorber of heat, could raise temperatures in the lower atmosphere by one-half a degree Fahrenheit.

This is just about what the worldwide temperature increase has been since 1900. It doesn't sound like much, but it was enough to push the crop line on the Canadian prairies 50 to 100 miles farther north.

On the other hand, dust and smoke reflect some of the sun's heat back into space. We are currently manufacturing, warn the climatologists, a nebulous veil of dust that is virtually encircling the world.

Mankind evidently has two alternatives before it. Either we pour more carbon dioxide into the air to counteract the effects of the dust, and then more dust to counteract the effects of the carbon dioxide, or we stop polluting the atmosphere entirely.

It is not difficult to guess what it will have to be. There is no advantage in being comfortably warm if you can't breathe.

Once-and-Done Power

Dutch scientists have come up with something new in disposable conveniences — a paper battery you use once and throw away.

The paper is impregnated with the same chemicals that go into a conventional dry cell battery, then sandwiched between a conducting foil and another layer of paper containing salt crystals. A necessary zinc or manganese strip may be added to the battery or built into an appliance. All you add is water to activate the chemicals and create electricity.

The "energy sandwich" has such a high power density that its inventors foresee its use in anything from cordless electric shavers to an emergency battery to start a car. In one test, it powered an electric shaver for seven minutes.

Trans-Pacific Air Route in Politics

DREW PEARSON and JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — With some of the slickest lobbying in the history of back-stage politics, Pan American Airways not only persuaded President Nixon to cancel the new air routes across the Pacific but conveyed the impression that he was overruling a political decision by his predecessor.

Exactly the opposite was true. Ex-President Johnson scrupulously refused to play politics in awarding the trans-Pacific routes, whereas Nixon's decision was dictated entirely by politics.

Here is the amazing story, carefully documented, of the profits and politics behind the trans-Pacific case:

For more than a decade, the Civil Aeronautics Board has sought to provide more competition and better service for air travelers in the Pacific. This has been bitterly resisted by Pan Am, which doesn't want to share its lucrative Pacific business with more competitors. A trans-Pacific air route, it's estimated, is worth $50 million a year.

The CAB eventually submitted its trans-Pacific recommendations to former President Eisenhower who, on the eve of his retirement, rejected them outright and instructed the CAB to review the entire matter. This decision has already given Pan Am eight more years of limited competition, worth millions to the stockholders.

After exhaustive hearings, the CAB came back to the White House with new recommendations — this time on the eve of President Johnson's retirement. Pan Am's president Najeeb Halaby, LBJ's former federal aviation administrator, immediately began camping in the White House basement.

Day after day, he slipped into the White House through the basement door to lobby with presidential aides. He urged them to hand down a decision keeping rival airlines out of the Pacific or, alternatively, to buck the decision to the Nixon administration.

— Bureaucrats Wooded —

Halaby also made repeated calls on top officials of the state, defense and transportation departments to enlist their support. Two of the most influential lawyers in Washington, Tommy "The Cork" Corcoran and James Rowe, were also retained by Pan Am to pull strings inside the Johnson administration.

When LBJ decided against Pan Am, the airline began spreading stories that he had jimmied the CAB recommendations for political purposes. This was pure hogwash.

Johnson, for example, was closer to American Airlines than to any other carrier. His close friend and secretary of commerce, C.R. Smith, was the former president of American Airlines. Another intimate friend and former aide, Warren Woodward, is a vice president. The other members of Johnson's inner circle, Horace Busby and Jake Jacobsen, are also on American's payroll.

Yet LBJ overruled a CAB recommendation that American Airlines fly to Japan via Hawaii. He acted upon the unanimous, non-political advice of Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford and Secretary of Transportation Alan Boyd that the recommended route would upset delicate relations with Japan. For Japan air lines, already in shaky financial condition, couldn't stand the competition.

Another airline with connections inside the Johnson administration was Eastern, which also wanted a trans-Pacific route. Eastern's Washington representative, Craig Raup, had raised campaign funds for Hubert Humphrey and worked hard to elect him president.

In gratitude, Humphrey personally intervened at the White House to seek a route for Eastern. But President Johnson refused to be swayed. He completely ignored personal and political pressures in making his final decision.

Rather than defer the decision to his successor, he also thought he was doing Nixon a favor by deciding trans-Pacific case and diverting the fire from the new president.

— Power of Pan Am —

However, Johnson underestimated the political power of Pan Am, whose top brass had contributed heavily to the Nixon campaign. Even before Nixon was settled in the White House Pan Am brought pressure on him to reverse Johnson's decision.

From another quarter, New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller also urged Nixon to overrule Johnson. It is worth mentioning that Rockefeller's brother Laurance is the largest single stockholder in Eastern Airlines.

Thus Nixon, as his first major presidential decision, submitted to political pressure and threw out the CAB-recommended trans-Pacific routes — a disturbing omen of things to come.

Note: President Nixon explained that he acted in response to letters from the chairmen of the Senate and House Foreign Relations Committees. The truth is that the letters were strictly routine requests for a review of the case, the sort of letters that members of Congress write every day to placate constituents and contributors.

Senate Foreign Relations chairman Bill Fulbright, for example, was appalled when he learned that the President had cited his innocuous letter as a reason for cancelling the air routes. Afterward, so many airline representatives thronged into his office that he left town to escape them.

Scourge the Polluters

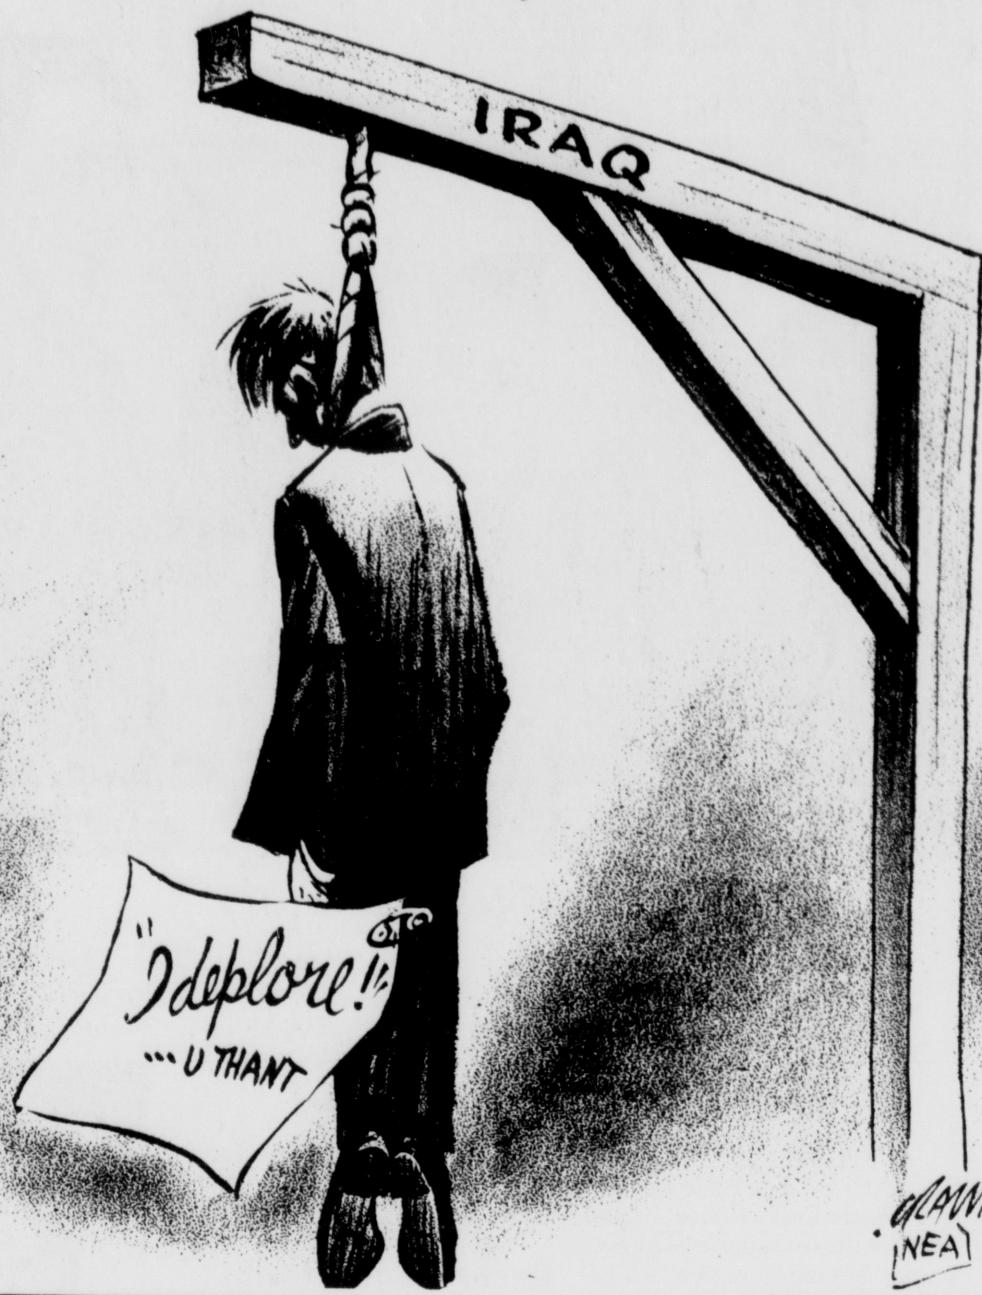

Russia, where the government owns all the means of production and where the social ills caused by capitalism aren't supposed to exist, is apparently having as many difficulties in the matter of pollution as other less-enlightened industrialized countries.

The U.S.S.R. Council of Ministers has announced a seven-year pollution abatement campaign to try to clean up the Caspian Sea, with stiff new regulations governing oil well operators, the shipping and fishing industries and community sewer systems.

At the same time, because past directives have been ignored, it has adopted the weapon of public ridicule and scorn against these major sources of pollution.

This is one page from the socialist book that might well be copied over here. Anti-pollution laws are a vital first step, but we will not begin making real progress until the day arrives when any manufacturer or company or municipality that dumps its wastes into the common national air or water or landscape is considered to be as irresponsible and disreputable as the individual who dumps his garbage on the common highway.

The U.N. Finally Takes a Stand

Stage Seems Set for Big 2 To Cool Off Middle East

By LEON DENNEN
NEA Foreign News Analyst

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (NEA)

It is obviously not in the interest of the United States to accept France's proposal for a Big Four conference on the Middle East.

President De Gaulle's suggestion, to no one's surprise, was hastily endorsed by United Nations Secretary General U Thant, who is hardly a friend of the United States.

But President Richard Nixon is experienced enough in foreign affairs to avoid international negotiations where the United States will be isolated.

The Russians and De Gaulle are already committed to an anti-American policy in the Middle East. Britain, the fourth nation of the Big Four, can play at best a conciliatory role. The British have important economic interests in the Arab countries and, like the Russians, are eager to reopen the Suez Canal as quickly as possible.

Four-power negotiations thus will add tinder to an explosive situation.

However, in the view of East European diplomats, direct negotiations between the United States and Russia, who are the principal adversaries in the Middle East, may bring stability, if not peace, to the troubled area sooner than expected.

Israel's leaders have little faith in the good will of Russia or the impartiality of De Gaulle. But they are increasingly confident that Nixon will indeed pursue an even-handed policy in the Middle East.

The proposal by Israel's Foreign Minister Abba Eban to exchange views with the Arabs through U.N. Ambassador Jarring—rather than by direct negotiations as Israel had previously requested—clears the way for serious negotiations.

The Israelis seem no longer convinced that massive retaliation discourages the Arab terrorists. They are also hinting that they will relinquish much of the Arab territory they conquered in 1967 in exchange for a settlement that will guarantee their right to exist.

On the Arab side, Egypt's President Nasser and Jordan's King Hussein, despite pressure from extremists and terrorists for another military confrontation with Israel, are also anxious for a relaxation of tensions.

Even though Egypt's armed strength is now back where it was before the war in June 1967, the Arab leaders know perfectly well that they are today even less likely to win another round with Israel.

Moreover, it has now been confirmed that Moscow warned the Arab leaders to curb their terrorists and guerrillas who seek to escalate Arab-Israeli hostilities.

To be sure, Russia's role in the Middle East, the Kremlin's policy of "no peace and no war," is ambiguous.

Where their interests are involved directly, as in Czechoslovakia, the Russians will not hesitate to resort to armed force. But it is increasingly clear that for the immediate future they are not interested in encouraging another war in the Middle East which they know their Arab clients cannot win.

More important is the Kremlin's belated realization that the Arab guerrillas, sustained and armed by Russia, have become pawns in Red China's anti-Soviet game. Peking has gradually replaced Moscow as mentor of the Arab extremists.

As Moscow reconsiders its involvement in the Arab-Israeli conflict, the latest conference of pro-Russian Arab Communist parties has even adopted new positions, criticizing guerrilla raids against Israel and calling for a "negotiated peace."

This significant development, largely overlooked in the West, will hardly improve relations between the pro-Chinese Arab extremists and the local pro-Russian Communists who put Soviet state interests first. But it is important as an indication of current Soviet policy. Peace in the Middle East is not imminent, but neither is another war.

Oswald: "One of the chief differences between expert or near-expert bridge and simple standard American is the opening two no-trump. Experts use it to show a no-trump hand with 21 or 22 points. With a 23- or 24-point no-trump hand the expert opens with a forcing two clubs and make a minimum rebid in no-trump. In Standard American the opening two no-trump shows 21 to 22 or maybe 23 to 24 points."

Jim: "This ability to split the two no-trump opening makes it possible to use great accuracy in responding. Of course it wouldn't make any difference to the player with today's North hand. With five points he will raise any two no-trump to three and hope for the best."

Oswald: "Unless South exercises great care and plays pretty well he won't make three no-trump. He has the 21 points minimum opposite, a rather unappetizing five."

Jim: "Let's see how South should play the hand. He should win the heart lead with his king on general principles and should start after clubs by playing the ace and then the 10 to dummy's queen."

Oswald: "This would give him an extra entry to dummy if clubs break 3-2, but they don't. He can count eight sure tricks. One spade, one diamond, two hearts and four clubs. He can try a simple spade finesse for his ninth but it will be better technique to go after diamonds and to take two finesses there."

Jim: "Right. A low diamond to South's 10 will lose to West's queen. West will probably clear the hearts and South will be back in dummy with the queen. He will now lead the jack of diamonds from dummy and let it ride."

Oswald: "When it holds he will take the proven finesse for the jack of clubs and have his nine tricks."

Letter to the Editor

ERNEST L. JONES (649 East 10th St.) — I wish to take issue with the upcoming election February 4. I first wish to state that I am not opposed to a Junior High school. I believe we have need for one. The only reason for my protest is its planned location. I agree that Mr. and Mrs. E.W. Thompson's donation of the land is admirable but if accepted and used as now planned it would create a problem that will cost the taxpayers citizens many times more than the gift, and it is a problem that we will face as long as a Junior High school would exist on that location.

We are told that all students living more than 3½ miles from the school will be furnished transportation. What about those who live 3¼, 3, 2½ or 2 miles away? They will also have to be reckoned with. This within itself will create headaches that you can't sleep off.

The citizens of Sedalia permitted a perfectly good building to be abandoned, and paid $101.00 to have it removed, although this building had many useful years left.

When people let pride dominate their every act, in most instances they wind up in distress. I suggest that the voters of Sedalia study this very carefully as there is no end to the problem this bus transportation will create. If ever we can cast a favorable vote for a Junior High school, let us be sure it is centrally located wherein the students live.

'Poised Performance'

By CYRENE DEAR

WASHINGTON, D.C. — Everyone with a White House press card was among the nearly 500 who literally stormed the East Room to hear and see President Nixon's first press conference. The general impression, even among the pros, was that it was "good." With little make-up for the cameras, his grooming was immaculate, and with more self-confidence than could be expected, he stood ready to take them on. He didn't bother to make the usual statement, so customary to the office, but began the questioning immediately. He even recognized two women questioners. He used no notes, had no lectern to lean upon and talked straight from the shoulder, with only a single microphone between him and the news assemblage.

With only one week in office he admitted that the administration's policies were in the formative stages. He had to "get together" his government, but he used crisp brief sentences in his answers. He used the word "sufficiency" in referring to national defense. He said that the nation's policies could not be defined in quick off-the-cuff remarks but should be planned and announced in an orderly fashion. He said that he had spent several hours of each day in office conferring with the cabinet and other advisers on Vietnam, the Middle East, and urgent domestic problems.

On the question of his "state of the union" message the President said he had not determined whether it would be one main address or would consist of a series of conferences with legislative leaders.

On the question of "law and order" he spoke with great concern on crime in the District of Columbia. He referred to the recent purse snatching in the vicinity of the White House and the more serious crimes in the Washington area, and he said that an anticrime program for the capital is being prepared. "As a beginning safety measure," he said, "we have turned on all the lights in the White House."

In thirty minutes a confident President Nixon dealt briefly with foreign policy, arms control, the Vietnam war, the budget, inflation, domestic problems, crime, the Johnson appointments (some of which he withdrew) and even included a bit of humor concerning a popular woman reporter.

President Nixon may never again have as large attendance at his press conference, but most of the members of the news media gave him a grade of "A." They called it a well "poised performance." But there was no applause.

DOCTOR'S MAILBAG

Skipped Heart Beats Are Common Occurrence

By WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT, M.D.

Q — I am a man, 59, and am troubled with skipped beats. My doctor says it is only nerves. What do you think? Is any treatment needed?

A — Skipped beats are common. Everyone has them at times but some have them more than others. Although smoking, worry and nervous tension cannot be said to be the cause, they do aggravate the condition. In most cases, no treatment is needed. But if the tension is severe, a mild sedative might help.

Q — Is paroxysmal tachycardia serious? What causes it? Can a person get over an attack without medication? Can the victim live a normal life?

A — In most cases, attacks of paroxysmal tachycardia are frightening but not serious. During an attack, the heart rate may be between 120 and 200 beats a minute. The cause is an irritation of the nervous mechanism that controls the heart beats. The attacks come and go in paroxysms even though no drug is taken to control them.

If you can adopt a philosophical attitude toward the attacks, there is no reason why you can't live a normal life. Quinidine, an old standby, and propranolol, a new drug, are effective in controlling the attacks. They must be taken under medical supervision.

Q — What is fibrillation of the heart? What is an electric pacemaker?

A — In fibrillation, the auricles may beat 300 times a minute. Because only every second, third or fourth of these gets through to the ventricles, the condition is known as heart block. A device that applies electric shocks to the heart about 72 times a minute will re-establish normal rhythm. This is known as a pacemaker. One type is applied to the chest wall externally and another, powered by a small battery, may be sewn under the skin in the region of the heart.

Q — After a heart block, can the heart return to normal? How far can a person who has had a heart block walk every day?

A — Re-establishing normal rhythm in a person with a heart block may be accomplished with drugs in most cases. Except in an emergency or in a very serious case, this method is preferred to the electric pacemaker. Exercise is beneficial for your heart but the amount you should take and how fast you can increase it must be determined by your doctor.

Their home at 912 West Fifth street has been leased by Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Mathieson. Mr. Menefee is county assessor and Mr. Mathieson superintendent of Town and Country Shoe factory.

Allen Telford, formerly an employee of the local express office who for the several years has been in similar work in Harrisonville, has received a promotion and has been transferred to Chester, Ill.

S. P. Harlan, well known young Sedalian, has been appointed district manager for the Bankers' Mutual Life Company which now has in operation 250 agencies with the two largest producing centers being St. Louis and Detroit.

NINETY-FIVE YEARS AGO

In view of the stringency of the times, the Democrat has reduced the prices on all job work. The reduction is from 10 to 15 per cent, and the reduction shall continue until times become better. We flatter ourselves that the character of our job work will compare favorably with that of any in the State. Any work not done well will cost nothing.

School District Levies For Area Show a Rise

Sedalia's property tax rate rose from $2.05 per $100 assessed valuation in 1967 to $2.15 in 1968, according to the Missouri Public Expenditure Survey's latest report, reflecting a state-wide tax rate jump of $5.27 in 1967 as compared to $3.83 ten years ago.

The survey indicated that the average property tax rate in Missouri has increased by $1.44 per $100 assessed valuation, or $3 million in the 10-year period from 1957 to 1967. The rise in rates and assessed valuations has resulted, the survey said, in property tax collections soaring from $270 million in 1957 to $522 million in 1967.

School tax rates in Pettis County remained static from 1967 to 1968, with the exception of State Fair Community College, where the rate rose from 30 cents in 1967 to 40 cents last year.

School districts in general reflected the highest increases in the county. Among those showing hikes in tax rates were:

R-I Cole Camp, from $2 in 1967 to $2.30 last year; R-VIII Green Ridge, from $2.66 to $2.85; 86 Knob Noster, from $2 to $3.15; R-V Northwest High School, from $2.45 to $2.60; R-VI Smithton, from $2.76 to $2.85; 54 Camp Branch, from $1.80 to $1.85.

Among those whose rates remained the same was Sedalia 200 School District, at $2.82 per $100 assessed valuation. Tax rates for other school districts: R-IV LaMonte, $2.30; R-I Windsor, $3.25; R-XII Dresden, $1.60; 30 High Point, $2; 29 Striped College, $2.10; 33 Sunnyside, $1.70; 35 Tanglebrook, $1.85.

Of the city levies listed in the report, Sedalia's was the only one showing an increase. The survey also stated that Sedalia was the only community in the county which did not have a 10 cent county library levy.

The survey indicated that the ratio of average assessments to sale value of the real estate in Pettis County, based on 1967 assessments, stood at 32.62 percent. Assessments are based on 30 percent of market value.

Percentage figures for other area counties:

Benton, 23.90 percent; Cooper, 29.23 percent; Henry, 23.14 percent; Hickory, 27.04 percent; Johnson, 23.80 percent; Lafayette, 24.45 percent; Moniteau, 28.93 percent; Morgan, 32.55 percent; Saline, 29.91 percent.

Of the area counties, Pettis County ranked highest, with Morgan County second.

Information for the survey's report was based on data which it said came from the Intangible Tax Unit of the State Department of Revenue.

Hearnes Turns Tears To Sunshine For Boy

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes has issued a special invitation to a youthful busboy to come on over to Missouri's state capitol for a tour personally conducted by the chief executive.

He could hardly do less. The other night Hearnes and a half dozen legislators went to one of Jefferson City's country clubs for dinner and discussion. Shortly after they were seated the waiter pleaded in a whisper for the governor's help.

One of the two busboys, the waiter said, had been especially keen to take care of the governor's table. But the other busboy got the assignment.

So the unhappy lad went to the men's restroom and sobbed — really turned it on. Hearnes found him and put a friendly arm about the youngster's shoulders while he issued the invitation to see the capitol.

That slowed the flow of tears and a dollar bill from one of the legislators blotted them up completely.

After the dinner both busboys leaped to the task of clearing the table and happiness was once again abroad in this fair land.

Student Gets No Assistance; Shot to Death

KANSAS CITY (AP) — An 18-year-old college student was shot to death on a South Side street Sunday night while at least six witnesses watched.

Police said at one point the victim, Michael T. Altschul, tied to get away from his attackers by entering passing cars, but the drivers rolled up the windows and locked the doors.

A witness said he saw Altschul and two other men fighting in the street. He said Altschul, after trying and failing to enter two passing cars, walked toward the two men with his arms outstretched.

At this point, the witness said, one of the men pulled a revolver and shot the youth from a range of about six feet. The two men then walked to a waiting car containing two others and drove away.

A tow truck driver found Altschul lying in the street, and the youth died a short time later in a hospital from a gunshot wound in his chest.

The victim was a freshman at the University of Missouri-Kansas City and worked part-time as a drug store clerk. His parents said he often hitchhiked rides.

Police said at least six persons must have seen the shooting, but only one came forward immediately to report it.

some House members became angry because their monthly pay checks didn't measure up, they thought.

With the new legislative term that began Jan. 8, the pay of legislators rose from the old rate of $4,800 a year to $8,400 a year. So the holdover members got checks reflecting a week at the old rate and 24 days at the new rate. New members got paid for only 24 days.

No senators complained. But some House members were livid with rage. They muttered darkly about a bill to cut the salary of the man they said was responsible, State Comptroller John C. Vaughn.

Vaughn said he was merely acting according to the legal guidance of former Atty. Gen. Norman H. Anderson. Last August Anderson ruled the old $4,800 a year rate would run until the new legislative term began Jan. 8. Then the pay would start on the $8,400 a year rate, Anderson said.

Vaughn said he realized that in other times legislators have been paid at the end of January in a new term for the full month. But, he said, accepting Anderson's legal advice was necessary unless a later one changed things.

Besides, he said, he had hewed to that legal line in the case of his boss, Gov. Warren E. Hearnes.

Until Jan. 13, inaugural day, Hearnes was paid at the statutory rate of $25,000 a year. But by legislative action last term, the salary of the governor went up this year to $37,500. So, Vaughn said, he changed the rate of pay of the governor at precisely noon, Jan. 13, just the time when Hearnes raised his right hand for the second time to be sworn in as governor of Missouri.

Meanwhile, it was reported at least one House member was asking the new attorney general, Republican John C. Danforth, to provide his legal interpretation of the situation.

Down in the cavernous basement of the capitol there's a computer that gobbles up the details of legislation introduced in both houses. With unemotional efficiency it stores away the changes each bill would produce in Missouri's statutes.

And scattered through the legislative area are inquisitive little machines with which legislators, lobbyists and others can — if they know how — pose questions on the progress, the meaning and the direction of various bills.

Cracked one senator the other day as he watched a demonstrator show how to use the electronic marvel:

"I hope they don't put one of these things in the press room. You guys will try to edit our bills and maybe even try to make them make sense."

Mansfield Pushes Pay Raise

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield says maneuvering by congressmen trying to prevent a vote on increasing their own pay "makes us look bad."

"The sooner we face up to it, the better it will be for all concerned," Mansfield said in an interview. He restated his support for the increase from $30,000 a year to $42,500 for members of Congress.

The Montana Democrat declined to predict what will happen Tuesday when the Senate takes up a resolution by Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., to block the pay package.

Under a law passed in 1967, pay increases proposed last month by former President Lyndon B. Johnson will take effect Feb. 14 unless either the House or Senate rejects them.

With Congress set to adjourn at the end of this week for 10 days so Republicans can make their traditional round of Lincoln's Birthday dinner speeches, time is running out for opponents of the pay boosts.

There is little business scheduled in the House this week, and leaders may have difficulty raising the necessary quorum of 218 members. However, Chairman William M. Colmer, D-Miss., is hoping to push a resolution through his Rules Committee to force the issue onto the floor. His chances are considered dim.

In the Senate, Mansfield and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen agreed to Williams' demand that there be a vote on the pay increase.

But sources immediately revealed a move might be made to challenge the Williams resolution on grounds a bill is needed to stop the pay boost.

"It would make us look bad" to use a parliamentary device to block a vote on the Williams resolution, Mansfield said.

The possibility remains the vote will not come directly on Williams' disapproval resolution but on a motion to table, and thus kill, the Delaware Republican's move.

'Symposium of Dissent' On MU Campus Opposed

KENNETT, Mo. (AP) — Circuit Court Judge William H. Billings of Kennett says he will ask fellow members of the University of Missouri board of curators to ban a "symposium on dissent" planned for the university's Kansas City campus.

"I frankly don't think the University of Missouri should provide a forum of respectability for some of these people who are going to be on that program," Billings said Sunday.

The judge said he will try to get the board together for a special meeting before the three-day symposium begins Feb. 13, and he indicated an alternative approach could involve legal action.

Billings objected specifically to appearances scheduled for Dr. Benjamin Spock, Staughton Lynd, Tom Hayden and Pete Seeger.

health of Mao to people in Hong Kong to refute rumors there that Mao is dead or ill.

Spock is appealing a government conviction of conspiring to counsel draft evasion, Lynd is a former Yale University history professor who opposes the Vietnam war, Hayden is a leader of the Students for a Democratic Society and Seeger is a folk singer once allegedly banned from broadcasting for his political views.

Also slated to speak at the symposium are Theodore Sorensen, once an aide to both the late President Kennedy and to President Johnson, and Charles Evers, a Negro civil rights leader whose brother was assassinated.

"I think we're asking for trouble with this sort of thing," said Billings. "It's time universities stand up and say no."

The University of Missouri-Kansas City student council approved spending $17,000 in student activity fee money to pay for the program.

Bid to Sell Nation On Mao's Health

HONG KONG (AP) — Communist Chinese radio stations, newspapers, Mao-thought teams and other propaganda units are launching a campaign to convince the nation that Chairman Mao Tse-tung is in excellent health, Chinese travelers from the mainland report.

They said this is the reaction of the Maoist regime to rumors sweeping the mainland that Mao is seriously ill.

A meeting by Mao with 40,000 Maoists last week is specially cited to counter rumors of illness.

The travelers said Communists at the border town of Shumchun admonished them to propagate stories of the good

Red Chinese Defector Believed to Be in U.S.

THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP) — The Red Chinese envoy who defected in the Netherlands is believed to be in the United States.

Dutch officials said Liao Hoshu, who was temporary charge d'affaires in the Hague, was flown to Bonn last week for interrogation by the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency about Chinese spying activities in Western Europe. The Dutch said they expected Liao to be flown to the United States Sunday.

West German officials and U.S. sources in Bonn said Sunday they did not know where Liao was.

Liao, the first Red Chinese diplomat known to have gone over to the West, took refuge with the Dutch on Jan. 24.

In one of his routine visits to the Dutch Foreign Ministry several months ago, Liao indicated he wanted to defect as soon as his wife and children were safely out of China. He told the Dutch he had been ordered home to account for the death in the Hague in 1966 of a Chinese scientist said to have sold a secret nerve gas formula to U.S. agents.

Dutch officials approached Romanian diplomats because they have good contacts in Peking. Two weeks ago at a reception at the Romanian Embassy, Liao learned that his family was safe in Hong Kong.

Dutch Justice Minister C.H.F.

Polak is said to have told the parliamentary committee for justice and foreign affairs that Liao "knows an unbelievable lot." The minister said the government did not seek intelligence from Liao because it feared retaliatory measures against the Dutch charge d'affaires in Peking.

The Chinese scientist whose death Peking reportedly wanted Liao to explain was Hsu Tsu-tsai, a rocket expert visiting the Netherlands for an industrial congress. He was found injured outside the Chinese Embassy and was taken to a hospital with a fractured skull and spinal injuries. One report said Hsu had been hit by a car, another that he had been thrown out a window.

Chinese agents abducted him from the hospital and took him to the location where he died on July 16, 1966.

Knob Noster Wins Crown In Clinton Cage Tourney

The Knob Noster Panthers captured the championship of the Clinton Tournament Saturday night with a 66-55 victory over California's Pintos.

Adrian fought to an overtime victory over Clinton 53-51, to capture third place in the tourney, and Smith-Cotton grabbed consolation honors with a 67-28 win over the Windsor Greyhounds.

Harris was top gun of the evening scoring 33 points for the Panthers while Robertson and Hackney scored 20 and 18 points respectively for California.

Knob took a seven point lead in the first quarter and added three more in the second. California trailed throughout the game.

Score by quarters:
Knob Noster . . . 20 16 11 19—66
California 13 13 16 13—55

Individual scoring: Knob Noster — Harris, 33; Fuller, 1; Wharton, 11; Hardtke, 9; Hutchens, 12. California — Robertson, 20; Hackney, 18; Althoff, 8; G. Flippin, 4; Milligan, 2; A. Meyer, 1; S. Flippin, 2.

Mayfield with 19 and Sterns with 14 led Adrian's scoring attack. For Clinton, it was Morgan with 18 and Egbert with 13 who led their effort.

The third period was the turning point of the game and the deciding period as far as Clinton was concerned. Adrian outscored Clinton by five big points which proved to provide the winning margin.

Score by quarters:
Adrian 15 6 16 16—53
Clinton 17 8 11 15—51

Individual scoring:

Tulsa Romps To 8th Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

One question appears left to be answered in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race: Can anyone stick close enough to Tulsa to have a shot at catching the Hurricane when it must play five of its last six MVC games on the road?

Tulsa romped to its eighth straight Valley victory Saturday night, crushing Wichita State, 94-69, at Tulsa. With games at home Wednesday against St. Louis (3-5) and Saturday against Bradley (2-6), Tulsa is a solid bet to run its string to 10 straight.

Runnerup Louisville, meanwhile, takes its 6-2 MVC record on the road twice—at Memphis State Wednesday and at North Texas State Saturday. The Cardinals could run into trouble.

Third-place Drake (6-3) takes a break from conference play, but fourth-place Cincinnati (5-3) is at North Texas Thursday and at Memphis Saturday.

Critical for Drake is the fact the Bulldogs already have lost to Tulsa at Des Moines and get their only other crack at the Hurricane in Tulsa Feb. 22.

Everybody could be too far behind Tulsa for it to matter much when the Hurricane hits the road for the MVC windup, playing at Louisville, Cincinnati, Memphis, North Texas and Wichita.

Drake Coach Maurice John is one who doesn't think the Hurricane will be out of sight by then.

Russell Is Lost For Some Time

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics, struggling in defense of their National Basketball Association championship, found themselves in serious trouble today with Player-Coach Bill Russell hospitalized and lost for at least a week.

Russell, who has led the Celtics to 10 titles with brilliant defensive play in his dozen years as a pro, suffered severely strained ligaments in his right knee in a 95-94 loss to the New York Knicks Sunday at Boston Garden.

With New York in front 95-92, the 6-foot-9 Russell took a pass and scored a layup. He fell hard to the floor and writhed in pain as the Knicks ran out the final 12 seconds.

Russell, 35, finally was carried on a stretcher to the dressing room and transferred 30 minutes later to University Hospital, where X-rays were negative.

Dr. Thomas Silva, the team physician, said a bone specialists would examine the injury in 24 hours. Barring unforeseen swelling he was "very optimistic that Russell would be able to return to the Celtics in a week or 10 days."

General Manager Red Auerback, who turned over the coaching reins to Russell after the 1965-66 season, announced he would return to the bench on a temporary basis.

In other games Baltimore walloped Detroit 128-106, Philadelphia overcame Chicago 112-104, Atlanta defeated San Diego 115-103, Phoenix nipped Milwaukee 122-121 and San Francisco outlasted Los Angeles 122-117 in three overtimes.

On Saturday, the Knicks clobbered the Celtics 109-82, Los Angeles beat San Francisco 106-101 in overtime, Atlanta belted Detroit 119-99, Cincinnati tripped Seattle 111-96 and San Diego

"I think when I'm only three games back and Tulsa's going on the road for five games, I'm in it," said John.

Thinking positively, John added: "We've got to have some help, and I think we'll get it."

Drake kept its hopes alive Saturday by whipping winless Memphis State, 85-72, at Des Moines, while Louisville kept pace with a 77-64 triumph over Bradley in Louisville and Cincinnati held its position with a 96-72 trouncing of St. Louis at Cincinnati.

"There was a lot of pressure on this ball game," John said of the Drake-Memphis contest. "We knew to stay on contention we had to win."

"We've been a little tight lately. It's affected our shooting."

Willie McCarter and Don Draper each got 20 points for Drake, which led only 34-32 early in the second half before pulling away. Rich Jones topped Memphis, now 0-9 in the MVC, with 24.

Tulsa bombed Wichita behind All-American candidate Bobby Smith's 32 points. Smith sat out the last five minutes, Rob Washington added 23 for Tulsa, while Greg Carney topped Wichita with 22.

Other top scoring feats were by Cincinnati's Rick Robertson with 27, Bradley's L.C. Bowen with 25 and Louisville's Butch Beard with 22.

Only MVC action tonight has North Texas State (4-4) at Memphis State.

downed Milwaukee 101-95.

In the American Basketball Association Sunday, Dallas trimmed Kentucky 104-101, Houston defeated Miami 94-89, Miami bounced Indiana 130-113, New York whipped Los Angeles 96-85 and Denver topped Oakland 119-105.

Although the game turned into a rough and ragged affair in the final period, Russell was injured on a play lacking stiff body contact. He said he thought he may have been hit on the leg as he lunged.

The surging Knicks, who have won 20 of their last 24 games, moved ahead of Boston into third place in the Eastern Division.

Dave DeBusschere put the Knicks ahead to stay 89-87 with a three-point play and Bill Bradley's two free throws with 14 seconds left gave New York a 95-92 lead.

Ray Scott with 26 points, Earl Monroe with 24 and Wes Unseld with 22 and 18 rebounds paced Baltimore to an easy victory. Philadelphia scored the last nine points in the final 44 seconds to beat the Bulls. Wally Jones had 27 points to lead the 76ers.

Atlanta pulled ahead for good in the second period and held off San Diego behind Lou Hudson's 35 points and 21 by reserve Paul Silas.

Gail Goodrich's basket with 19 seconds left broke a 116-all tie and he and Dick Van Arsdale kept Phoenix ahead with free throws. Goodrich finished with 37 points.

Nate Thurmond, who scored 24 points and grabbed 34 rebounds, and Jim King scored seven points as San Francisco led all of the third overtime. The regular game ended tied at 86 and Los Angeles blew leads in the first two extra periods, which ended tied at 99 and 110.

After Collision

Celtics player-coach Bill Russell covers his face as he grimaces with pain after colliding with New York Knicks Willis Reed during the fourth quarter of action in the game in Boston Sunday. Standing over Russell is teammate Don

Nelson, right, as stretcher is brought in. Russell suffered a severe knee sprain and had to be carried off the court. He will be lost to the club for a week or ten days. (UPI)

Plunge Big 8 Cage Race Into Chaos On Weekend

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Big Eight Conference basketball race was plunged into chaos over the weekend, and it likely will take a week or two to restore any semblance of order.

Heading into Saturday's resumption of league warfare on a full-scale basis following the between-semester break, things looked relatively cut-and-dried.

Colorado was on top of the league, unbeaten and holding a two-game lead in the loss column.

Picking through the weekend's debris, however, left this assessment: The Big Eight is back to an eight-team race, with last-place Nebraska (1-4) far from finished as a legitimate title contender.

Kansas beat Colorado, 80-70; Oklahoma State chopped down Kansas State, 64-59. Nebraska cooled Missouri, 87-71, and Iowa State continued its comeback, drubbing Oklahoma, 87-61.

Additionally, Colorado lost 7-foot-2 sophomore center Ron Smith because of scholastic difficulties for the second semester and Jo Jo White wound up his collegiate career at Kansas. And, Oklahoma State has a cloud hanging over its head regarding what the conference will do about that 61-60 victory over Missouri back on Jan. 4 when Amos Thomas, since declared ineligible, was still playing.

OSU may have to forfeit the victory, thrusting Missouri back into strong contention. Conference representatives will decide OSU's fate at their Kansas City meeting the end of this month.

Colorado (4-1) will have Smith for one last game tonight at Missouri, but faces stern road tests at Kansas State, Iowa State and Nebraska later this month without him. He averaged 12.7 points in 16 games for the Buffs this season.

Kansas (4-2) won't have White tonight when the Jayhawks entertain Oklahoma State at Lawrence and bid for their 1,000th cage victory. White made his finale a memorable one Saturday night, scoring a career-high 30 points to lead KU to its thumping of Colorado in a game which wasn't nearly as close as the final score. Kansas squandered a 24-point lead, Cliff Meely got 26 points for the Buffs.

Nebraska overcame a seven-point Missouri lead, got hot in the second half and bombed the Tigers for the Cornhuskers' first victory after four straight Big Eight losses. Tom Scantlebury led the way with 21 points, while Don Tomlinson meshed 20 for Missouri, now 2-3.

Nebraska entertains Oklahoma (1-3) tonight with a chance to build some momentum.

Oklahoma State (3-2) played what Coach Henry Iba described as "awfully good" basketball in taking the steam out of defending champion Kansas State's hopes, dropping the Wildcats to 3-3. Gene Hawk with 15 points, Charlie Savell with 14.

MU Tigers Choose All-Opponent Team

COLUMBIA — Oklahoma's Steve Owens and Kansas' Dave Morgan were the top vote-getters on Missouri's 1968 all-opponent team selected by the Gator Bowl champs this past week.

Kansas claimed seven spots on the team: followed by Oklahoma with six, Alabama, the Tigers' Gator Bowl opponent, placed only one member on the team, linebacker Mike Hall. Illinois was the only Tiger opponent not represented on the squad.

Mike Montler of Colorado was voted the most outstanding offensive lineman. Owens, who rushed for 177 yards and scored three touchdowns in Oklahoma's 28-14 victory over the Tigers, was named the most outstanding offensive back.

Nebraska's Mike Wynn edged Oklahoma's Dick Paaso for the outstanding defensive lineman award. Morgan, a Tiger tormentor with two interceptions, easily outstanding defensive back.

The Tigers' all-opponent teams:

Royals Land Two Prize Ball Players

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Two shortstops and a catcher are the prize young baseball players the Kansas City Royals landed negotiation rights to in baseball's free agent draft Saturday in New York City.

Ronald Opatkiewicz of Walnut, Calif., a 19-year-old student at Mt. San Antonio Junior College, was the Royals' No. 1 choice in the regular draft of players who have not been previously drafted. He is a left-handed hitting shortstop.

In the secondary phase — players previously drafted by another major league club but who declined to sign contracts — the Royals landed catcher Darrell Downey and shortstop Richard Trapp, a flanker back for the Buffalo Bills who the Royals hope 50 lure away from pro football.

Downey, 18, is a student at Ventura, Calif., Junior College. Trapp was a standout shortstop for the University of Florida and had previously been drafted by the New York Yankees.

Other top draftees included pitchers Dennis Nicholson of Visalia, Calif., and Van Winters of Fresno, Calif., third baseman Charles Kurkjian of Fresno and shortstop Lloyd Lightfoot of Greensboro, N.C.

Only area player drafted by Kansas City was first baseman Edward Hopkins of Pittsburg State College, a 22-year-old who stands 6-foot-4 and weighs 235.

In all, the Royals drafted 19 players, more than twice as many as they had expected to take. "We were surprised at the players who were available to us," said Lou Gorman, director of player development.

Heilman To Meet Griffith

NEW YORK (AP) — It was a tough break for Doyle Baird but a lucky one for Andy Heilman.

An arm and back injury forced Baird, of Akron, Ohio to pull out of the Madison Square Garden 10-rounder with Emile Griffith and instead Heilman, of Fargo, N.D., will get the $7,500 purse for taking on the former welterweight and middleweight champion tonight. Griffith will earn $10,000.

The middleweights will go on just before heavyweight contenders Buster Mathis of Grand Rapids, Mich., and George Chuvalo, the Canadian champion from Toronto, clash in a 12-round television bout. The heavyweight fight will be telecast by Sports Network. Starting time is 10 p.m., EST.

Griffith, who beat Heilman in Oakland, Calif., last June 11, is about a 3-1 choice to make it two straight over the rugged westerner. Mathis, although ranked below Chuvalo in the list of contenders, is a 2-1 favorite.

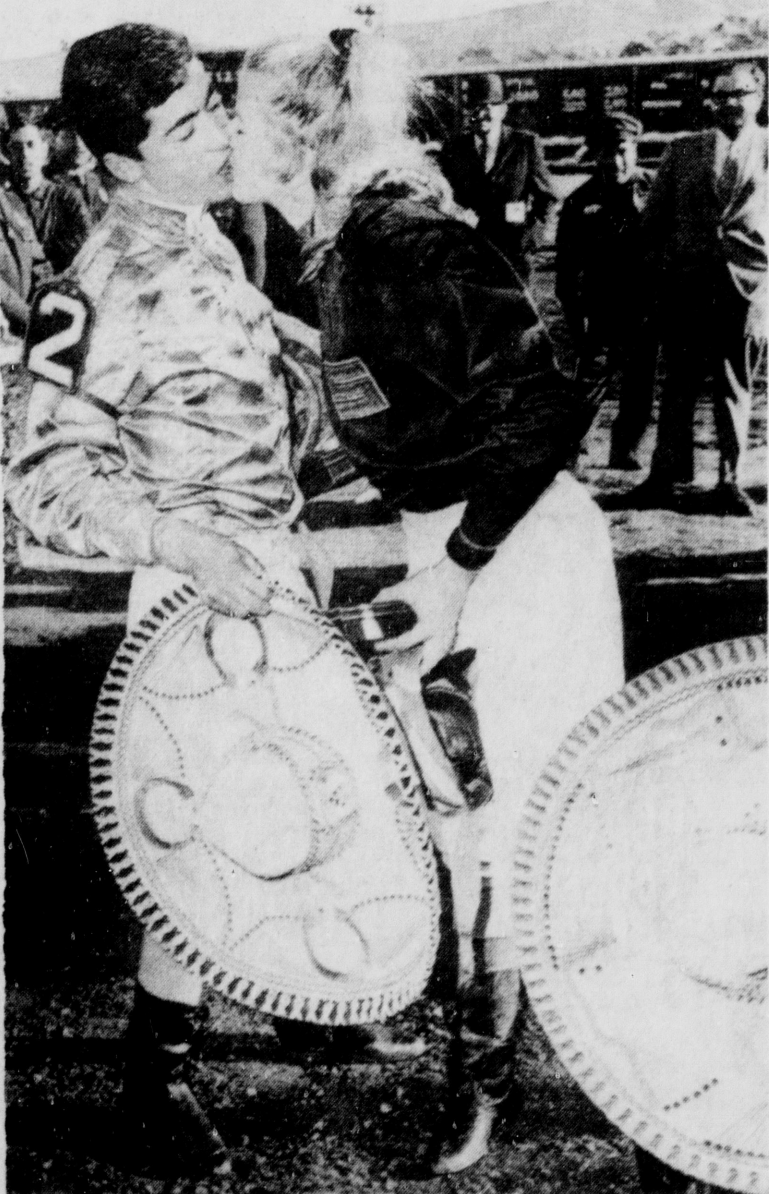

Griffith, ranked second, has a 57-10 record, including 19 knockouts. Heilman, ranked fifth, has a 39-43 record, including 21 knockouts. He is 27.

Both Mathis, 24, and Chuvalo, 31, have piled up winning streaks since being stopped by Joe Frazier, the five-state heavyweight champion from Philadelphia.

Mathis, draped over the ropes and stopped by Frazier in the 11th round of a title fight at the Garden, March 4, has won five straight. The onetime 300-pound blimp, now a trim 230-pounder, has won five straight. His record is 28-1, including 19 knockouts.

Chuvalo, fiercely battered and stopped in the fourth round by Frazier on July 19, 1967, underwent plastic surgery to repair his face and laid off for 11 months. Since then he has swept six straight for a 53-14-2 record, including 45 knockouts.

TORONTO (AP) — Canada will meet the Netherlands in Europe in a first round Davis Cup tennis match sometime before May 15, it was announced Wednesday.

Card Table Serves As Bed Headboard

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mine is an idea for people who are short on storage space. We did not know where to put our folding card table. Every place we tried, it stuck out like a sore thumb. Finally I put it at the head of a single bed that had no headboard. The table is just the width of the bed, half is hidden back of the bed and the rest of it looks just like a headboard. When needed it also is easy to get out.—ESTHER

DEAR POLLY—I think this is a great idea. It would be so easy to make a boxed, fitted slip cover to go down over the exposed part of the table top so that it would look even more like a real headboard. Any plain or patterned fabric used elsewhere in the room would tie it right in with the room's other decorations.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—My apartment is so small we must keep the television set and upright piano back-to-back as a room divider. Does anyone know of a clever, inexpensive way to cover, decorate or do something about the top half of the piano back which shows above the television set? I now have a drape hanging there but do not like it any better than the bare back.—L. R. D.

DEAR POLLY—Instead of using cardboard, I use opaque cottage cheese container tops for cutting patterns used in decorating and craft work. Just trace your design onto the plastic lid and cut out. This pattern also may be used in cake decorating. It is washable and can be used over and over again. It does not wear down from repeated use as cardboard does.—MYRTLE

DEAR POLLY—I have found a good way to keep the floors shining between waxings. Put a clean, old T-shirt on your wax mop. As you wet mop the floor, go back over it with the covered mop and it takes up any remaining spots of water and acts as a buffer. This also eliminates worrying about someone stepping on the wet floor as it dries as you go along.—ANN

Hosket Paying the Price for Olympic Gold Medal

By LEE MUELLER
NEA Sports Writer

NEW YORK—(NEA)—The games slide by while Bill Hosket sits and watches. Life in the National Basketball Association is like that. Substitutes measure out their lives in 12-minute quarters.

There are occasions after a New York Knickerbockers' game when Hosket could dress without a shower. No one on the bus home would be offended. Basketball players don't sweat much sitting on a bench.

Wilmer (Bill) Hosket, 21, is paying the price, you see, the price for being a rookie; the price for missing all pre-season practices, exhibitions and eight regular-season games. He's paying, too, for the experience he lost while playing for the U.S. Olympic basketball team.

Several NBA rookies—like San Diego's Elvin Hayes and Baltimore's Westley Unseld—found the Olympics economically unfeasible. So they skipped the games, as did UCLA center Lew Alcindor who refused to consider it.

Partially due to his Mexico City trip, then, Hosket is averaging 1.9 points and his playing time percentage is even smaller. Not too impressive for the Knicks' No. 1 draft choice—certainly not impressive for a man earning $30,000 a year. Hosket, however, says it was worth it.

“Winning the gold medal is the greatest feeling in the world,” he says. “I was at Ohio State for four years and I developed the normal amount of school loyalty. But this was different. It's something you do for your country instead of for your school.”

A two-time All-American at Ohio State, Hosket averaged eight points in eight games during the Olympics. “It wasn't much like the NBA, though,” he admitted. “The people here are so much bigger and stronger. Anyway, you can't just come into this league and play.”

Some do, fellows like Hayes and Unseld, but New York has more talent than most NBA teams. At the moment, there is no place for Hosket in the Knicks' lineup.

“I'm waiting,” the 228-pound forward said. “It's always tough sitting on the bench, but it's an adjustment almost every rookie has to make. I think I can make it here.”

While he's waiting, Hosket—who describes himself as a “rookie rookie”—says he receives advice from teammates.

“On the floor, Willis Reed helps me on defense,” he says. “Bill Bradley talks to me on the bench about offense. He helps out on the floor, too. He's the kind of player who can think, and play at the same time.”

Hosket, however, doesn't get much help from one Knick player, Don May, 22, the Knicks' No. 2 draft choice, is a rookie, too.

“We played all four years together at Dayton's Belmont High School,” Hosket said. “We probably would have gone to the same college if it hadn't been for our families. My father went to Ohio State and Don lived about two blocks from the University of Dayton.”

Now Hosket and May see a lot of each other—on the Knicks' bench.

“This is a good ball club,” says Hosket, brushing back his blond hair. “But I think I can make it. In the meantime, I hope we can just keep winning. It's always good to play for a winner.”

Medal Winners In Ups, Downs

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

Olympic gold medal winners had their ups and downs over the weekend. Willie Davenport kept on winning while Bob Seagren and Ralph Doubell bounced back. Dick Fosbury, however, continued to flop.

Davenport, the 110-meter Olympic champion from Southern University, sprinted to his ninth straight hurdles victory, winning Friday night at New York's Millrose-Wanamaker Games and then breaking the world mark in the 45-yard high hurdles at the Boston A.A. Games Saturday night.

Seagren, the Olympic pole vault titlist, and holder of both the indoor and outdoor world records, failed to qualify in New York Friday night, missing three attempts at 16 feet.

However, the handsome Southern California student came back to capture his specialty Saturday in the Oklahoma City Invitational with a 17-foot effort.

Doubell, the Australian 800 meter winner in the Olympics, was stalled by transportation problems and didn't compete in New York. The Melbourne native had no such trouble reaching Portland, Ore., for the Oregon Invitational and romped to an easy victory in the 1,000-yard run in 2:11.1.

Fosbury has a different problem. Famed for his Fosbury Flop, in winning the Olympic high jump crown at Mexico City, the 21-year-old Oregon State student, has now lost all six of his indoor competitions since his 7-4 1/4 leap over the bar in Mexico. He hasn't been over seven feet, either.

Fosbury arrived in time for both the New York and Portland meets, but at the Millrose Games, Fosbury failed in three attempts to clear 6-10. Then Saturday at Portland, he again couldn't clear the 6-10 barrier. Other outstanding performances over the weekend included:

George Young's 14th straight victory and sixth this season in the two-mile run. The 31-year-old Casa Grande, Ariz., school-teacher took his specialty in 8:37.2, a Millrose record, which earned him the top performer award of the 62nd annual event.

Lee Evans, the 400-meter Olympic champion, took the 600-yard run in 1:11.7 and Villanova's Marty Liquori won the mile in 4:00.8. Bob Beamon, another gold medal winner and world record holder in the high jump, scratched after one attempt in his specialty before a packed house of 17,670 at Madison Square Garden.

Beamon went up to Boston, but didn't participate because of a pulled leg muscle. Davenport, however, took the spotlight with his 5.3 mark in the 45-yard high jump. He broke his own record of 5.4.

Ronnie Jordan, the Florida University high jumper, continued to sparkle, winning in New York and Boston with identical leaps of 7-1.

Another indoor record was set in the Boston A.A., when 27-year-old George Brenn of Los Angeles cracked the 35-pound hammer throw mark with a toss of 73 feet 3 1/2 inches. Harold Connolly held the old record of 72 1/2.

Sam Bair kept his mile streak alive, copping his fifth in a row with a 4:04.3 clocking in Boston. The Kent State ace was looking to break the four-minute barrier, but tired in the last quarter. He won by 20 yards over Barry Brown, New York A.C.

Winners in the Portland Invitational included Chris Papanicolaou of San Jose State, with a 17-1 1/2 meet record in the pole vault; Australia's Kerry O'Brien in the two-mile, 8:34.9; Olympian Charlie Green, the 60-yard dash in six seconds; and Neal Steinhauer, the shot put, with a throw of 65-8 1/2.

Lobos Triumph In Close Game

By DICK COUCH
Associated Press Sports Writer

The littlest Lobo wears No. 00 on his basketball shirt . . . and stands 10 feet tall in New Mexico today.

Petie Gibson, a 5-foot-8 sophomore, pumped in a 30-foot jump shot at the buzzer last Saturday at Albuquerque, giving the Lobos a 68-66 triumph over arch rival New Mexico State.

It was the pint-sized playmaker's only field goal in the game, but it completed a two-games-in-four-days sweep for New Mexico over the eighth-ranked, previously unbeaten Aggies. The Lobos won 86-66 Wednesday on State's Las Cruces court.

Top-ranked UCLA continued to roll up winning numbers, smashing Stanford 98-61 Saturday night after a 109-74 romp over California Friday night. The Bruins have won 32 in a row, including 16 this season. 36 straight in Pacific 8 Conference play and 80 in succession on their home court.

UCLA and third ranked Santa Clara, idle last weekend, are the only unbeaten major college powers.

No. 2 North Carolina boosted its season mark to 14-1 with a 107-87 conquest of Maryland, but fourth-ranked Davidson fell to Iowa 76-61 at Chicago.

No. 5 Kentucky beat Vanderbilt 103-89. No. 6 St. John's, N.Y., topped Temple 65-49. No. 7 Illinois trimmed Wisconsin 86-73 and No. 9 LaSalle clobbered New Orleans Loyola 102-65 in other Saturday action.

Gibson, smallest man ever to play for Coach Bob King at New Mexico, swept the Lobos to their 13th victory in 19 games with a high-arching shot that dropped cleanly through the cords as the clock ran out.

“I've got a bruise on the side of my ribs where Coach King hit me as he jumped up saying, ‘It's going in,’” said Lobos assistant coach Norm Ellenberg.

“I've got a few bruises, too,” said Gibson, a grandson of former semipro baseball great Josh Gibson, who was half-carried, half-dragged from the court by New Mexico fans after the winning shot.

Lew Alcindor scored 27 points for UCLA against Stanford as the Bruins tightened their hold on the Pacific 8 lead. Bill Buntin's 30 points and 12 rebounds paced North Carolina's attack and Glenn Vidovic hit for 23 to trigger Iowa's upset of Davidson.

Dan Issel and Mike Casey led Kentucky past Vanderbilt with 28 and 24 points, respectively, and Joe DePre's 16 kept St. John's rolling against Temple.

Soph Greg Jackson put in 21 of his 36 points in the second half, leading Illinois past Wisconsin, and LaSalle buried Loyola after running off 17 successive first half points for a 35-17 bulge.

Purdue grabbed the Big Ten Conference lead with a 4-0 mark by subduing Ohio State 95-85 in overtime. The Buckeyes and Iowa are 4-1. Illinois 3-2 in league play.

Tulsa reeled off its eighth straight victory in the Missouri Valley Conference, whipping Wichita State 94-69 for a 16-2 overall mark.

Kansas handed Colorado its first Big Eight Conference loss, 80-70, and the Buffaloes' troubles were compounded Sunday when 7-foot-2 Ron Smith was declared scholastically ineligible.

Latest Victory Over Detroit

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Have the Boston Bruins forgotten how to lose?

Once experts at the fine art of taking it on the chin, the boisterous Bruins have stormed into a six-point lead in the National Hockey League's East Division with an unbeaten string of 17 games that is approaching record proportions.

The Bruins' latest victory was a 4-2 triumph over Detroit Sunday night. In other action, New York pounded Pittsburgh 7-3. St. Louis stung Toronto 5-3. Montreal bopped Chicago 6-4 and Minnesota shaded Philadelphia 3-2.

In Saturday's games, Montreal ripped New York 6-2. St. Louis blanked Detroit 2-0. Chicago and Minnesota battled to a 5-5 tie. Philadelphia and Pittsburgh tied 2-2 and Los Angeles outlasted Oakland 8-5.

The Bruins haven't lost since Christmas night and have dropped only one game in the last 24. Their 17-game unbeaten string is only six short of their own NHL record set in 1941.

Until they finished third last season in the NHL's East Division, the Bruins had a string of six cellar finishes in seven seasons. They've already won 30 games this season and still have 27 to play. Only once in the last 10 years have they won more than 30 in a full season and that was last year when they won 37.

Against Detroit Boston played without All-Star defenseman Bobby Orr for the first time this season. Orr re-injured his left knee late last week but is expected back in the line-up Wednesday at Chicago.

After a scoreless first period, Phil Esposito, John McKenzie and Ed Westfall gave the Bruins a 3-0 edge. Then Detroit struck back with Dean Prentice and Gordie Howe narrowing the gap to 3-2. Howe's goal was his 25th of the season. But Glen Sather put it out of reach for the Bruins in the final two minutes of the game.

The Rangers fell behind Pittsburgh 2-0 on goals by Val Fontevne and Jean Pronovost but New York roared back with three goals in each of the last two periods.

Toronto lost its third straight game against an expansion team when St. Louis bunched three third period goals to break a tie and beat the slumping Maple Leafs. Gary Sabourin rapped the tie-breaker past Johnny Bower at 10:39 of the final period and less than two minutes later, Al Arbour scored his first goal of the season.

After Dave Keon drew the Leafs close again, Jean Guy Talbot grappled it up for St. Louis. The Blues now lead the West Division by a fat 20 points over second place Oakland.

Jean Beliveau's 16th career hat trick led Montreal past Chicago in a nationally televised afternoon game. The three goals gave the tall Canadiens' center 23 for the season and 453 for his career. Yvan Cournoyer had a pair for Montreal, running his season's total to 30.

Doug Mohs scored twice for the Black Hawks, who were hampered by a freak injury to Bobby Hull in the first period. Hull was cut on the hand when teammate Ken Wharram jumped over his boards and caught him with the skate.

Danny Grant scored his 20th goal of the season and Minnesota's tough defense whipped Philadelphia as the North Stars moved within five points of the fourth place Flyers in the West Division.

Dissidents Plan Strategy Meet

NEW YORK (AP)—Dissident major league baseball players, threatening strike action in their bid for higher pension benefits, were set to hold a strategy meeting today in a midtown hotel.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association, expected about 100 major leaguers, including the player representatives from each of the 24 clubs to attend the 11 a.m. EST. session.

The players recently rejected the club owners' offer of a $1 million increase in contributions to the pension fund by an overwhelming margin. The Association is talking strike, and the players have been urged not to sign 1969 contracts until their pension demands are met.

Willie Mays, Bob Gibson and Hank Aaron are among the top stars who have voiced support of the no-sign campaign.

With the start of Spring Training less than a month away and player-owner pension negotiations at a standstill, the New York meeting was called to inform the players of the situation and discuss possible courses of action should the deadlock continue.

The current pension agreement expires March 31. Player contracts are supposed to be mailed by all clubs before Feb. 15 and training camps are due to open for pitchers and catchers Feb. 20, with the rest of the players to report a week later.
